Willkie Is To Deliver His Answers

Any 'Political Speeches' by Roosevelt to Be Answered Within 48 Hours

Repeats Query

Willkie Would Know F. D. R.'s Feeling Up-on Fifth Term

Aboard Willkie train enroute to Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Oct. 25 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie served notice today that he would reply to any "political speeches" by President Roosevelt within 48 hours and probably within 24 hours of their delivery. The Republican presidential nominee made the announcement as his campaign train turned east from Akron, O., where he said last night that he sought to end "this era of bad feeling" between industry and labor.

The exact time of the replies will depend on availability of radio hook-ups.

Speaking this morning in Jamestown, N. Y., Willkie told an audience that "this is the campaign of 1940 and not the campaign of either 1932 or 1936. This is likewise an American campaign in which we are primarily interested in American priorities."

Police estimated the crowd at 12,000.

Repeats Question
Willkie said he wanted to repeat a question he previously had asked President Roosevelt: "Since he has refrained from any statement of his belief about a third term for any president, I would like to know what he thinks about a fourth term. I wish he also would discuss with us his views on a fifth term."

If the President contends that a foreign crisis requires his continuation in office, Willkie added, he should remember that there were acute foreign problems when George Washington retired.

Willkie said that President Roosevelt told Congress last June "go home, go home, there is no need of you staying here because I can handle the international situation."

Did you hear him say, "You stay in session to appropriate money for the defense of America?" the nominee asked. "He said, 'go home, go home.' And yet if Congress had not stayed in session there wouldn't be a dollar appropriated for that defense program today."

The candidate argued that "tinkering boys down in Washington" had hampered recovery. "We can develop an expanding America where there will be an absolute shortage of persons to fill the jobs," he added.

Willkie already has arranged a full itinerary for the closing period of the campaign. On today's program were speeches at Jamestown, Elmira and Binghamton, N. Y., and Scranton and Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Back to New York

He will go back to New York City tomorrow, appearing at the World's Fair and the Fordham St. Mary's football game in the afternoon. In the evening he will make three talks in Queens and two in Brooklyn.

Willkie's campaign last night in Akron where he was a lawyer in the 20's included talks in three auditoriums. Two were composed largely of reminiscences while the third was a prepared address discussing collective bargaining.

The New Deal, he said, has a "reactionary" concept of collective bargaining. Actually, he declared that system should bring about understanding and co-operation between employer and employee.

The New Deal has created bad blood between certain groups in industry and certain groups in labor, he continued. "With the help of the leaders, both of labor and industry, I want to put an end to this era of bad feeling. I want to unify the spirit of America."

In its broadest sense, Willkie asserted, collective bargaining will bring a future for "the half million young Americans who enter nature life every year."

New Deal's Method
The New Deal's method of "going faith with these young people," he said, "is to treat them as a problem children whose only hope is a government handout."

Welles, French Envoy Talk Of What May Affect America

Potential Threat to U. S. of French Fleet and Any Change in Status of Colonies in This Hemisphere Believed Basis of Discussion

Washington, Oct. 25 (AP)—France's fate—and hourly expected developments which might have a vital effect on American interests—were under close state department study today following the dramatic conference "somewhere in occupied France" between Reichsfuehrer Hitler and Marshal Petain, chief of the French state.

Undersecretary of State Welles and Gaston Henry-Haye, the French ambassador, conferred at the state department last night after swiftly moving diplomatic moves abroad left no doubt that a major decision concerning Europe's future hung in the balance.

No official announcement of the Welles-Henry-Haye talk was made, but it was understood in informed quarters they had engaged in a general discussion of problems which arise as a result of closer collaboration—or even active partnership—between conquering Germany and conquered France.

Developments which would have an effect on specific American interests include: Any new disposition of the French fleet which, if turned over to Germany might become an actual or potential menace to American security. The United States has been vitally interested in what was to become of France's navy and this question is understood to have been discussed with the Petain government and its representatives on a number of occasions.

Any change in the status of France's colonies, especially the possessions in the western hemisphere. Committee Established
A 14-nation committee was established yesterday which, under authority of the Havana Pan-American Conference, has emergency powers to assume control of any European possessions in the western hemisphere.

The United States, acting in co-operation with the other American republics, was reported authoritatively to have plans ready to assume protection of such French territory if French collaboration with the Axis made it advisable.

The United States also is vitally interested in Dakar, French naval base in Africa which might be utilized by the Axis for submarine attacks in the south Atlantic sea lanes between Europe, Africa and South America.

The act of Havana empowered the American republics to assume possession, as an emergency measure, of French or other European possessions in the western hemisphere.

State department officials had no immediate comment to make on the request, or on what action, if any, this government might take.

Carol, his friend, Madam Magda Lupescu, and Ernst Urdareanu, former minister of the palace in Bucharest, were placed under virtual arrest Tuesday and are under guard at their hotel in Seville.

Eight Days Late
Albion, N. Y., Oct. 25 (AP)—Just eight days late, a 27-year-old Middleport farmer signed up for the draft yesterday, telling Orleans county draft board officials he'd just heard of conscription.

Mayor Jacob Landauer, board chairman, said Walter Herman Woodrich, told him he worked for his father on a farm and did not have a newspaper, radio or telephone. He said a neighbor told him yesterday he should register.

F. D. R. to Serve, 'God Willing'
If Elected, He'll Give 4 Full Years

Washington, Oct. 25 (AP)—President Roosevelt told his press conference today that he intended to serve out the whole four years if he is elected to a third term.

The President made the statement in reply to a reporter's question concerning his speech in Philadelphia Wednesday night in which the President said his objective in the next four years would be to make work for every young man and woman "a living fact."

The reporter asked: "Does that mean that, God willing, you intend to serve the full four-year term if re-elected?"

"Of course," Mr. Roosevelt responded with a smile.

He then volunteered that the newsmen could quote him directly on that, and added he was glad the reporter had put in "God willing."

Shipyard Labor Conference Is Held On Issue of Preferential, Open Shop

The question of a preferential shop or an open shop was thoroughly discussed at a meeting of local ship yard representatives and the local union at a conference held yesterday afternoon at the Governor Clinton Hotel. At the close of the conference it was decided that some progress had been made, and another conference was slated for Friday afternoon, November 8.

The Island Dock ship yard was represented by John D. Schoonmaker while L. K. Christie represented the Christie Scow Company.

The union was represented by James Purcell, an organizer from Albany; James Cloonan, president of the I.L.A., No. 1570-A of Oswego; James Jacobs, business agent for Local 1570-A; Richard

Clerk Who Is Compiling Numbers

There is a great deal of work numbering and filing all of the registration cards for the selective service, and no one knows better than Roland T. Fuller, who at the present time the only one employed by the local board to make up the numerical list. Mr. Fuller was photographed this morning as he was found wading through this pile of registrations, a part of the approximate 3,000 that the local office will handle.

Sneeze Powder Puts Court Into Uproar At Mulrain Trial

Man Who Tossed Eggs on Willkie Visit Is Bawled Out by Judge for Un-American Act

Chicago, Oct. 25 (AP)—A handful of sneeze powder completely upset the South State street court decorum today when the case of Charles Mulrain, 53, who allegedly egged Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Willkie Tuesday night, was called.

When the defendant, the complainant and his lawyer, Judge Harold P. O'Connell, the reporters photographers and spectators stopped sneezing—whenever tossed the sneeze powder wasn't caught—Mulrain pleaded innocent to charges of assault with a deadly weapon, frozen eggs, and disorderly conduct.

Mulrain obtained a continuance until Nov. 12, one week after the election.

Would Prove Intoxication
He said he wanted time enough to obtain witnesses "to prove I was intoxicated," and that he wanted to obtain lawyers.

"I am terribly sorry about the incident," he said. "It was all done in the spirit of the moment."

Willkie, the Republican candidate, was struck in the left temple by an egg just before his train departed from the LaSalle Street station and one or more eggs struck Mrs. Willkie in the back, soiling her clothing.

Sized by police, Mulrain was accused in complaints by Republican State Senator Arthur J. Bidwill who was represented today by Edward Casey, a former municipal court judge.

"In behalf of the Republican party," Casey said, "we want to be magnanimous in this matter. Mr. Willkie also is magnanimous and we agree the defendant should have some time to prepare his case."

"I'd do anything in the world to right this thing," Mulrain replied. "I think as much of Mr. Willkie as anybody. It was just a boyish prank."

"All of us may not agree with what Mr. Willkie says," said Judge O'Connell, having ceased sneezing, "but we must defend his right to say it."

"The trouble with the whole thing," said Bidwill, "was that it gave Chicago a black eye."

Casualties Inflicted
Cairo, Egypt, Oct. 25 (AP)—A British patrol inflicted casualties on an Italian unit and put it to flight in an engagement outside Kassala, in the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, the British command asserted today. It was the second British success reported in this region in as many days.

Draft Board Lists 360 More Names In City Tabulation

Present List Carries Total to 456; Local Numbers Are Not the Actual Draft

Kingston's draft board this morning released 360 additional numbers, and names to the 96 released yesterday, bringing the total so far to 456.

Roland Fuller of Lafayette avenue, clerk of the board, is still at work completing the list of approximately 3,000 names and as fast as the list is completed the names and numbers will be published.

At the draft board office in the Central Post Office this morning it was stated that the numbers assigned by the local board do not specify the order in which the men will be drawn for service. This will be decided by the master lottery in Washington next Tuesday when the numbers will be drawn from the "gold fish bowl."

For example if No. 456 is drawn the men to whom this number has been assigned by draft boards throughout the country will be the first men called for examination.

The list, numbering from 97 to 456 inclusive, follows:

Negro Is Elevated To General's Post; First in History

Col. Benjamin O. Davis Is Promoted in List Given by President; Emmons Named

Washington, Oct. 25 (AP)—President Roosevelt today announced the promotion of Colonel Benjamin O. Davis to become the first Negro general in the army's history.

Davis' elevation, to be a brigadier general, was among a number of high rank promotions which Mr. Roosevelt said were required by the increase of the army.

Major General Delos C. Emmons, commander of the GHQ air force, was promoted to the rank of lieutenant general, the same rank held by commanders of the army corps.

In the air corps, in addition to General Emmons, the following promotions were announced:

Brigadier General John F. Curry, air district commander, to be major general.

Colonel Clinton W. Russell, chief of staff, GHQ air force, to be brigadier general.

Colonels John C. McDonnell, John B. Brooks, and Carlyle H. Wash, all wing commanders, to be brigadier generals.

Corps, Division Commanders
Corps and division commanders promoted were:

To be major generals: Brigadier General Walter K. Wilson; Brigadier General Ernest D. Peck; Brigadier General Fulton Q. K. Gardner (coast and anti-aircraft commander in Hawaii); Brigadier General Sanderford Jarman (coast and anti-aircraft commander, Panama Canal Zone).

To be brigadier generals: Colonels Forrest E. Willford, Sandy Hook, N. J.; Arthur G. Campbell, Virginia Beach, Va.; Robert C. Garrett, Portland, Me.

Colonel Joseph A. Atkins, now on the army chief of staff, was promoted to be a brigadier general.

Lieutenant Colonel Lewis B. Hershey, executive of the selective service system, was promoted to be a brigadier general in the field artillery.

Colonel Davis, a brigade commander, and Colonel Jack W. Heard, commandant of the armored force school, were promoted to be brigadier generals in the cavalry.

Organization Necessary
A White House announcement said that the increased strength of the army "makes necessary the organization and activation of many new units, and permits a large expansion of the air corps." "It increases manifold," the

Italy Joins Bombing of Anglo Areas

London Is Subjected to Rapid-Fire Raids and Casualties Are Reported Great

Berlin Is Hit

British Pour Terror Up-on Germans, Kill Some, Set Fires

(By The Associated Press)
Italy stepped belatedly into Adolf Hitler's secretive and personally-conducted negotiations for a "new order" in Europe today with reports that Premier Mussolini will soon meet France's Premier Marshal Philippe Petain.

Another meeting between Hitler and Mussolini was believed likely, according to diplomatic sources in Bern, Switzerland — the same quarters which disclosed Hitler's mystery-shrouded meeting with Petain yesterday.

Nazi authorities meanwhile reported 62,000 German school children under 14 years of age have already been removed from Berlin "to escape recurrent losses of sleep" due to British RAF bombing raids, and that another 30,000 will follow.

In addition, 42,000 children have been removed from Hamburg, in north Germany, which RAF warplanes have attacked almost nightly.

The Berlin exodus represents about 10 per cent of the city's 650,000 school children.

Italians Join Raiders
With Italian warplanes joining the assault on Britain for the first time, London underwent a series of violent, rapid-fire attacks today, suffering apparently heavy casualties.

More than a score were killed or wounded when a stick of bombs smashed two streets on a crowded London thoroughfare, exploding between the two cars on parallel tracks.

The motorman of one car was killed, and another stick of three bombs wrecked a bus, wounding the conductor.

Nazi raiders in Berlin said the raiders were dropping bombs of "heavier caliber" than usual.

The German capital also experienced the terror of bombs hurtling from night skies as British RAF bombers gave Berlin its second night raid in a row. The Germans acknowledged a number of casualties were inflicted and that "several fires" were set.

Germany's great northern port of Hamburg, where warships are under construction, also felt the lash of bombs with a Nazi communiqué commenting tersely that "fires were set and other property damage resulted in the harbor and some sections" of the city.

The London air ministry said RAF warplanes stormed Berlin in a three-hour attack, bombing the Pultze-Strasse and Lehrer railway stations.

Poor visibility made it difficult to estimate the damage, the air ministry reported, but British air force, striking successive waves, noted that a "huge fire" reddened the skies after a salvo of bombs hit a military objective.

A German radio broadcast said the death toll in Berlin and Hamburg was "extremely high" and that "indiscriminate bombing of the German civilian population by the RAF is vastly increasing."

Italian flyers aiding Germany in the aerial siege of Britain were reported to have established an air base on the English Channel coast with a "tremendous" accumulation of men and materials. Fascist dispatches said Italian bombers have already come back from raids with "marks of combat."

On Way to Vichy
On the diplomatic front, attention focussed on the status of France as Premier Marshal Philippe Petain, 84-year-old chief of the vanquished republic, was reported en route to Vichy to inform his ministers on the outcome of a dramatic meeting with Adolf Hitler.

Amid strict official secrecy, some sources said France finally has agreed to a "limited" cooperation with Germany in return for easing of the Nazi yoke.

In Berlin, authorized sources said the Hitler-Petain meeting in the German fuhrer's railway car "somewhere in France" yesterday provided "new evidence that we are trying to put Europe back on her legs under Axis leadership— independent of exterior influences which have been trying to stick their noses into affairs which don't concern them."

Conway Is Principal Speaker at G. O. P. Rally Held at Cook's Hall Last Night

Standing squarely on his record in public life Assemblyman J. Edward Conway, Republican candidate for county judge, was the principal speaker at the rally of the Kingston Republican Club in Cook's Hall on Railroad avenue on Thursday evening.

Assistant District Attorney Fred Stang, City Judge Matthew V. Cahill, and John F. Wadlin of Highland, candidate for member of assembly, were the other speakers of the evening.

Assemblyman Conway, who was given a rousing welcome said in part: "Several weeks ago at the municipal auditorium you and I heard the very able prosecutor and national figure, Tom Dewey, pay a glowing and well earned tribute to one of the ablest, one of the finest, one of the most honest and straight forward political leaders in this nation—our own beloved Chairman Phil Elting.

"In words of sincere conviction he gave expression to the feelings in the minds and hearts of all the people of Ulster county who know Mr. Elting. So clearly true was this that on October 12, even the editor of the Democratic local paper was moved to write these editorial words of approval. I quote: 'we good Democrats are so constituted that sincere tribute to a local Republican, who has lived here all his life and his forefathers before him, is looked upon as a community boost. It was a proud night for Philip Elting and somehow broad-minded Democrats could see that thrill and appreciate it." And this editorial concludes: "However, it was Mr. Elting's party and a splendid one and Mr. Dewey showed admirable personal qualities by coming here for the only speech he is scheduled to make in the national campaign in this state and in doing this he paid justified tribute to a splendid citizen whom we wholly approve of as a citizen and lover of Ulster county but whom we differ with, entirely, in politics."

SMITH JOINS WILLKIE IN NEW YORK

Alfred E. Smith (left) rides into New York city with Wendell L. Willkie after boarding the Republican presidential candidate's train at Harmon, N. Y. This was shortly before Smith, 1928 Democratic presidential nominee, made his first speech in Willkie's behalf, declaring he believed the New Deal was "trying to get us into war."

However I am informed that another editorial printed in the same paper under date of September 27, has been reprinted and distributed with the approval of my opponent. In that editorial the same paper says—and probably the same pen wrote this, I quote "If any politician has at any time sided the election or appointment of an individual to any public office with the thought that such individual owes him something for it, then the public which pays for that public service, and that alone, must be defrauded. How can any man give the public the loyalty his public office calls for if he, at the same time, owes a political boss for the office he fills. Can any man serve two masters in an old, old question not yet answered in the affirmative. And alongside of that question should go this one—

"Whom should a judge serve?" "If this means anything," said Assemblyman Conway, "if it is not a complete waste of printer's ink, it is a charge of personal dishonesty aimed at Mr. Elting and at me. By innuendo it is charged that I am dishonest in that I would be mere clay in the hands of the leader of my political party and would do his bidding without regard to justice. It charges in the same fashion that Mr. Elting is so bereft of common honesty an decency as to endeavor to control the courts and operate them for the benefit of a political party."

"This is mud-slinging of the lowest character because it is as false as it is brazen." "If it is the desire of the opposition to make the issue of this campaign for county judge the question of whether Mr. Elting is honest, then I accept that issue wholeheartedly and rest upon a record of 40 years of his leadership which has brought to him such honor and such glowing tributes from all who know him.

"If it were a sin and a crime for one who seeks judicial office to have participated in the affairs of his government by loyalty to the principles of his political party then our friend the editor, should indict in his column these men: an honorable justice who now presides in Supreme Court and who was once Democratic county chairman; a justice of the Appellate division, who was once chairman of the Democratic party in Schoharie county; yes, even the candidate of the Democratic party for judge of the court of appeals, this year, because he is opposing our Republican candidate who was first nominated, the Hon. Benjamin B. Cunningham."

"It is clear as day to the people of Ulster county that the opposition believes that this judgeship should be the personal gift of Governor Lehman to be handed to my opponent on a silver platter, submissively, humbly and without the right to voice any protest."

"Shades of the Chicago convention. Don't they dare risk the decision of the people of Ulster county? Is a politician from Dutchess county and Governor Lehman to be the last and only word in the selection of Ulster county judges?" I think not.

"In Ulster county the right of the people to make their choice freely to this and every other elective office is still, thank God, preserved. Incumbents and candidates for the office of county judge have more often been opposed for that position than not opposed. Virtually every man who held that post at some time had opposition and the present incumbent, despite the lamentations of the Democratic paper, is no exception."

"This is the court of the people of Ulster county. There's the choice of who that judge shall be. I stand on the fundamental principles of government."

"Where does my opponent stand? Does he support Roosevelt or Willkie? The people of Ulster county would like to know."

Judge Cahill in the course of his address urging the election of Willkie said that he did not know what this country was coming to when a presidential candidate was egged. If this is not radical, if this is not Red," he said "I don't know what is."

He referred to the fact that when Roosevelt assumed office there were ten million unemployed and after eight years of the Roosevelt administration there were still ten million unemployed in this country.

Assistant District Attorney Fred Stang said that an appropriate slogan for this campaign was "Relief with Roosevelt or Work with Willkie."

The closing rally will be held next Thursday evening in Cook's Hall when an interesting program is being arranged by President Louis Bruhn, who presided at the rally last night.

that even the editor who makes the charge proved his insincerity by joining the chorus of voices in praise of our distinguished chairman.

"Either this editor meant what he said in September when by inference and innuendo he made the charge, or he meant what he wrote in October when he lauded Mr. Elting. The people of this county know he was right when he joined in commending our leader and that he was engaging in political 'bunk' when he attacked him."

"If it be the desire of my opposition to make an issue of my record for honesty, integrity and fairness then with equal enthusiasm I shall accept that challenge."

Assemblyman Conway pointed out that during the eight years he had served the party he had never asked political allegiance and during seven political campaigns he had passed through there had never before been the charge of unfairness of personal dishonesty.

"No man can serve two masters. No man should," said Assemblyman Conway "nor will I." "For the next six years, with the support of all my friends I shall serve and answer to only one master," he said, "all the people of Ulster county."

"If it were a sin and a crime for one who seeks judicial office to have participated in the affairs of his government by loyalty to the principles of his political party then our friend the editor, should indict in his column these men: an honorable justice who now presides in Supreme Court and who was once Democratic county chairman; a justice of the Appellate division, who was once chairman of the Democratic party in Schoharie county; yes, even the candidate of the Democratic party for judge of the court of appeals, this year, because he is opposing our Republican candidate who was first nominated, the Hon. W.C.T.U. Reports On Session Held Recently Upstate

The 67th annual convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of New York state recently held at the Asbury Methodist Church, Watertown, with between 400 and 500 delegates in attendance, reports much work accomplished during the year. The interest shown proved beyond a doubt that dry sentiment is increasing.

There were several noted speakers on the program. Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, president of New York State W. C. T. U., gave her annual message on the second night. Mrs. Colvin is a forceful and convincing speaker and her address is always looked forward to with keen interest.

Among other facts stated by her, she said that the liquor traffic has been indicted as the cause of the downfall of one of the great nations of our time, by its own government officials.

Now at the most critical period of our history as a republic, when we are faced with unscrupulous and designing totalitarian and Communist nations already making war, instead of doing everything to protect America by providing the best trained and best equipped army for defense, an agency of our state is deliberately suggesting to the makers and sellers of alcohol that they sell within our training camps. She said, "It is dangerous, anti-patriotic, and must be prevented."

In the face of all these difficulties, the W. C. T. U. dedicates itself anew to the task of protecting our loved ones from the curse of drink and our homes from its blighting influence.

Other speakers were Miss Flora Strout, who has lately returned from Africa where she spent two years as a missionary in the interest of the temperance work; also Miss Mary Campbell of India, Burma and Palestine, who spoke with a deep concern for our sisters in these and other countries where war has wrought much desolation and suffering. The Hon. Clinton N. Howard, superintendent of International Reform Federation, spoke on the "Battle of the Bottle" and said if everyone would discharge their Christian duty through the ballot, the battle of the bottle would be won.

The speaker on the closing night was John McSparran, former master of the Pennsylvania State Grange and secretary of agriculture under Gov. Gifford Pinchot of that state. Mr. McSparran told his audience that he recognized in the W. C. T. U. and the Grange the two great organizations that are laying the ground work for control of alcohol.

Today, people abuse the blessings and precepts of God, he continued, but the W. C. T. U. stands for all the influence for good that His precepts represent. It is not the privilege of our generation to break down the traditions of Christianity that have made our nation what it is today.

He declared that alcohol, as it has been used, has no place in a Christian civilization because it is a poison and not a stimulant. "Alcohol should be handled like any other poison and the whole business of the manufacture of alcohol must be strictly controlled," he declared. Alcohol in itself is not an evil, he said, predicting that some day it would become one of the greatest boons to mankind when people realize "it was not meant to explode in human bodies, but in engines."

Predictions that "the battle of the bottle" isn't a losing fight, that soon this country will have prohibition again to stay, and that this time the enforcement will be by those who truly believe in abstinence, was voiced by Mr. McSparran. He based his trio of predictions on the fact that just as many, if not more, are still "dry" in this country today, and furthermore that now, more than before, they are acutely aware of the pitfall of liquor.

Citing the enormity of the liquor traffic through statistics, he claimed that 5,000,000 hard drinkers and 20,000,000 moderate drinkers consuming $4,000,000,000 worth of liquor, were "imbibing precious years of their lives away."

"A hard drinker loses 29 years off his average lifetime, and a moderate drinker loses off 13 years. This wounding and bruising process of life must be curbed, not just in the barroom, but in the home, where supposed innocent cocktails are served at 4."

Concluding, Mr. McSparran listed three instruments to be employed in bringing back prohibition permanently, the first, the need of men and women in prayer, the second, immersion into politics to select the lesser of evils being offered, and the third, increasing of membership in organizations working toward abolition of liquor.

The first all-steel railway baggage car was introduced in 1904.

Stone Ridge Man Writes Articles on French Horn

The School Musician for October has an article on "Intricacies of the French Horn Simplified," by Philip W. L. Cox, Jr., of Stone Ridge. It is the first of what will be a regular column on the French horn, written by Mr. Cox.

Accompanying the initial article is a picture of Mr. Cox and one of his ensembles as they appeared at a recent Sunday night concert in Scituate, Mass., before a group of interested parents. Among the group of French horn players are Mrs. Cox, formerly Miss Margaret Service of Stone Ridge, and her sister, Miss Janet Service of Stone Ridge, now a student at Russell Sage College.

Mr. Cox, who is a French horn player of ability and renown, took his degree at the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, where for two years he was French horn instructor. He is now working for his Master's degree at New York University and also is instructor of several groups of musicians in rural schools in Ulster county.

Kaplan, Altamari Cars Are Damaged North of Highland

The Oldsmobile car operated by Arthur Kaplan of this city and a Dodge car of Michael Altamari of 219 Washington avenue were badly damaged early Thursday morning a mile north of Highland when the two cars collided just south of the scene of a fire in which a truck load of mattresses burned.

A truck and trailer owned by National Hauling Corporation of Vineland, N. J., proceeding north had stopped when the driver, Nicholas Rosciato, discovered his cargo was ablaze. The driver had disconnected the tractor from the trailer about 11 o'clock when heat from the cargo called his attention to the fire. At 12:45 o'clock while Chief of Police Clark of Highland was directing traffic to the south bound lane around the fire, Kaplan reached the scene from the south. When he observed the officers' signal he applied his brakes with such force his car stopped quickly and the Dodge struck it from the rear. The operators were not injured.

Sergeant E. J. Hulse and Trooper Benson who were directing traffic to the north of the fire were summoned to the scene but no arrest was made. Kaplan took the occupants of the Dodge home.

The tractor and trailer was enroute from New Jersey to Schenectady with a load of mattresses from a C. C. C. camp. The cargo was completely destroyed and traffic was tied up on the north bound lane from about 11 o'clock until 3 o'clock in the morning before Troopers allowed traffic to use the lane.

Parent-Teacher Ass'n

Wallkill P. T. A.

Over 100 members and guests of the Wallkill Central School Parent-Teacher's Association were present at the meeting Monday evening in the Plattkill Grange Hall. Palmer Tubbs, a former U. S. Naval commander, now safety engineer at the aqueduct shafts 4 and 5, gave a helpful talk to the parents saying it was their duty to train their children to accept the responsibilities of the future, and to instill moral courage and respect for others in them.

Miss Joan Keil of Plattkill, in old fashioned costume, gave a dance number and Byron S. Clark music supervisor, led in group singing.

George Sisti, a member of the Board of Education, explained the plans of Architect G. S. Marvel's sketches of the proposed school building. Plans for the meetings of the year were announced. The next meeting will be at the Wallkill High School auditorium with a spelling contest for grade school children scheduled.

On December 16, a Christmas party will be held for parents, teachers and friends in Wallkill school with Byron Clark, in charge of the program and Hospitality committee, Mrs. Gordon Wilkins, Mrs. Herbert DuBois, Mrs. Roy Fox, Mrs. Harold Mills and Mrs. William Beatty as hostesses.

A panel discussion will be held on "Community Co-operation," conducted by Principal Tilroe in the Leptondale school, January 20. Mrs. Alonzo Benedict will be hostess chairman.

Founder's Day meeting, with the theme "School Welfare," will be held February 17 in the Hasbrouck Hall, in Modena. Music will be by the Wallkill High School band. Mrs. Simon DuBois, hostess is chairman.

On March 17, Declaration contest will be held in Wallkill High School. Music will be furnished by school groups.

Panel discussion will be held on "Co-operating for Child Welfare," at the meeting in April 21, at the Shawangunk Church Hall. Mrs. Herbert DuBois, will be hostess chairman.

The High School "W" banquet, when the students winning a letter for "sports," will be guests of honor at the Community Hall in Wallkill was discussed. There will also be annual election of officers and committees to be appointed.

Refreshments of apple pie a la Mode and coffee were served by a committee with Mrs. George Sisti as chairman. Others were Mrs. Leander Minard, Mrs. Arthur Dier, Mrs. Milton Van Duzer, Mrs. William Nabor, Mrs. L. C. Dibble, Miss Patricia Fleming, Miss Catherine Bell, Mrs. Harold Jensen, Miss Ethel Eckert, and Mrs. John Kline.

Mt. Marion P. T. A.

Mt. Marion, Oct. 25—On Monday evening, a committee composed of Mrs. William Myer, Mrs. George Gillison, Mrs. Harold B. Lane, Mrs. William Werner and Mrs. Harold Young met at the home of Mrs. William Down and made plans for a Halloween party for the Mt. Marion Parent-Teacher Association which will be held in the church hall at Mt. Marion on Friday evening, November 1 at 8 o'clock. There will be round and square dances, games and fun for all.

CASE AGAINST A THIRD TERM

As the anti-third term sentiment crystallizes it is interesting to note the persons who are outspoken for safeguarding the tradition against long continued tenure of office of the Chief Executive of the United States.

John W. Davis, once candidate for the Presidency on the Democratic ticket, an outstanding constitutional lawyer and one of our clearest thinkers in the field of national policy, is one of these citizens. His case against the third term lacks entirely any personal bias. Out of the political spotlight himself, he is concerned in his argument with ideas, not with men and he sums it up as follows:

"I care not how others may feel, but for myself the man has not yet been born of woman—and I use that phrase because it includes both the living and the dead—the man has not yet been born of woman to whom I would entrust for more than eight years at most, the vast, the expanding, the fateful powers of the Presidency of the United States.

"We have become sterile indeed if we cannot produce at any and all times the men we need to fill our public offices; so sterile indeed that we would then no longer deserve the liberty we would no longer have the will to protect."

Sentiment against the third term is growing and should continue to grow. If the third term tradition was to be broken now, some future President, less scrupulous than Mr. Roosevelt, might well take advantage of the shattered tradition to entrench himself in power and become a real dictator.

Are we to prepare now for a dictator or a king to rule over us?

A CHANCE FOR SOUTH AMERICA

Some travelers from the United States returned after a summer in South America to say that there was no real democracy there, that dictatorship was the rule, and even the choice of the people, and that our "good neighbor" policy could easily be wiped out by Nazi or Fascist action when those groups were ready to take over.

It is folly, of course, to ignore facts and to delude ourselves with hopes if they are not based on actual conditions. But is it not also folly to be sweepingly critical of neighbors about whom we know shockingly little? We have only begun to take an interest in them and have much to learn.

Deeper exploration of their civil life than the casual tourist makes discloses many freedom-loving citizens in all those lands. If there are even a few men and women of vision who believe in the future of democracy in the New World, if there are those who distrust the Old World dictators and long to shake off their influence, should we not strengthen their hands and hearts by patient, intelligent cooperation?

"ESCAPIST" CLOTHES

Psychology has penetrated the fashion salons. A leading department store in the East had its annual style show recently and announced "escapist" designs for its patrons. Distraction was created by Persian innovations.

The clothes displayed were "ornamented with gorgeous hats, muffs, jewels, turbans, tapestry, furs and colorful embroidery." They were in Persian colors, described as "Persian green, cerise red, citron yellow, plum purple, gold, white and black."

Hats, bags, the trimming of evening coats and capes used both Persian materials and designs.

It all sounds rich and lovely and certainly provides something different from the peasant type styles and the Spanish note of recent years. But as a means of escape from thoughts of the war, it seems destined to early futility, with the Axis already pointing and marching to the Southeast via the Balkans. There is oil in Persia, as well as beauty, and oil is the leading motif in Axis plans these days.

OUR NATIONAL PILGRIMAGES

Travel, which we usually think of as just fun, has become an industry. And it is not only business but big business. Experts say that tourists in the United States will have spent more than $6,000,000,000 this year.

If you could follow those dollars into all the activities and places where they serve their thousands of purposes in pleasure, health, recreation, information and friendly association, you would have a wonderful picture of what a great nation does outside of working time.

You would find it the most typically American of all our activities, a nation going forth annually on a great pilgrimage "for to admire and for to see, for to behold this world so wide," and finding a world within our own borders.

This vast, intricate procession of travelers is one that never ends. Greatest naturally in the summer, it proceeds through all the other seasons. For, thanks to the size and variety of our country, there is never any limit to the places where the restless tourist can go and the things he can see and the new experiences he can have.

Now we're getting rubber made of coal, limestone and salt, and little by little we're developing a synthetic civilization, with everything changed into something quite different.

So much royalty is coming over here for the duration, that kings and queens and princesses are no treat any more.

England can tell how mad Hitler is, on any given day, by the number of bombing planes he sends over.

Too bad about this war and draft and all—football doesn't get a fair chance.

CURING BED WETTING—ENURESIS

One of the gratifying discoveries in recent years is a method or methods of curing bed wetting or enuresis. Even after children reach their teens, they may be embarrassed by this distressing condition. That it is due to nervousness or emotional disturbances in the majority of cases is true and many have been cured by frank talks by the family physician. Punishments and rewards are not now used to any great extent in the treatment.

In young children, liquids are cut down toward evening, the child is made to pass his urine before going to bed and the parents are retiring the child is awakened by his parents and walks to the bathroom to pass his urine. This gets him completely awake and is considered an important part of the treatment. Formerly the parents carried the child to the bathroom and in many cases he was not completely awake when passing the urine. Part of the treatment also was methods to prevent the child lying on his back during sleep—knot in tail of sleeping garment, narrow space in bed preventing him lying on his back.

A great advance in the treatment of older boys and girls is the eating of the salt sandwich. No liquid of any kind is allowed after 4 p. m., and a sandwich of bread and butter with a layer of table salt, or salt fish, or salt meat is given at bedtime. As salt holds 70 times its own weight of water, this great amount of salt at bedtime holds the water in the tissues until morning, thus preventing it going down to the kidneys and thence to the bladder.

However, there are some cases of bed wetting that are not due to nervousness or to emotional disturbance, but to some condition of the kidneys, bladder, or the generative organs themselves. The editor of the Journal of The American Medical Association advises that before any treatment for bed wetting is begun, a thorough examination of the kidneys, bladder and generative organs be made including X-rays to determine whether cause is organic or functional (due to nervousness). Thus if the home treatment as outlined above is not effective, examination by a genito-urinary specialist should be given.

BABSON ON BUSINESS

WAR AND PROSPERITY

Babson Says Prosperity Is The Best Defense

Babson, Park, Mass., Oct. 25.—I have said in recent articles that business is getting better. As long as the defense program continues to broaden there will be no lessening of activity. Year-end reports will show more plus than minus signs. Manufacturers and other business men are throwing away the red ink bottles and stocking up on black. It takes time for war production to get under way. The country is still in the inertia stage. Once the initial problems of planning, financing, and production are overcome, things should move fast.

Don't Be Impatient

With machine tool companies working day and night to provide the necessary equipment, there is a scarcity of skilled labor. Men must be trained for many important and technically-skilled jobs. Blueprints must be drawn, sources of supplies arranged, transportation schedules by rail and highway checked. Lawyers must study contracts, prices be determined, and bank loans negotiated. Our industrial areas are coming to a state of intense activity.

The great agricultural sections of the country have not yet felt the increased tempo of our industrial cities. However, as movement of the business cycle swings from east to west, all section of land will ultimately be caught up in this rush to arm. Young and old, rich and poor, will all take more of a part in whatever the future holds.

Business Will Improve

War prosperity for some few people is a delightful state to contemplate. Unfortunately, such people do not come into contact with the actualities of war. These are far more cruel than those of the last conflict. My business associates know that I never sidestep a scrap. I thrive on trouble. Give me some new upset to face each day and I am a happy man. I am no pacifist in business, religion, or war; and I am all set for any actual participation in the current fight abroad. But I also know that when our enemies suffer we also suffer in that end.

Dividends may increase, but total incomes of business men and investors will be drastically reduced by taxes. Even war talk and a feeling that the right side is winning brings increased activity in the stock market. The demand for labor will put more money into the pockets of the man on Main street and into the tills of stores. Only unbiased historians hence will be able to judge whether or not wars ever provide lasting economic values. Surely, real prosperity can come from our present situation only as it strengthens our character and teaches us needed lessons.

Let's Remember 1929

Unfortunately, we have not yet recovered from the effects of the last war. Furthermore, fundamentally, we profited little from it, either financially or spiritually. We had a slump in business after the armistice, followed by several years of rising values. Then came the swift kick in the pants so many of us remember. Now, we are on the eve of another great outbreak. God grant that it will not come before we are prepared.

Our country is like a sick child who before recovering from an ear abscess breaks out with chicken pox. We are not yet out of the depression starting in 1929. Temporarily, the economic situation will ease up, bringing us to a false sense of security and prosperity. Geographically our country is so large, and our numbers and resources so great, that many have the impression we cannot be licked. However, in Hitler's eyes we are already tottering from internal labor troubles and Congressional fights.

Prosperity Best Defense

Germany now has the bulk of the resources of the Continent, let alone the Scandinavian countries. With this backing, anything can happen to us economically. One saving grace is that in all history no man yet conquered the world. If I have learned anything in the last 40 years, it concerns man's frailty. Some day a leader will rise in some other country who will be Hitler's match. Until then, we must keep prepared economically as well as militarily for whichever way the tide turns.

I may sound like an alarmist. If so, forgive me. I am anxious only that we Americans are not caught sleeping, economically, at the switch. I am hopeful, too, that all will realize the price our young people must some day pay for the present expenditures and brief respite from unemployment. Hitler has no idea of invading the United States as long as our people believe that through labor and political dissensions, unemployment will be so great and our people so divided that we will turn to Fascism as a remedy.

As my grandchildren constantly remind me, times have changed. Our conception of money and wealth will change. It no longer takes money, as we know it, to finance Germany. If it were of any real value, the gold which we have buried at Fort Knox would guarantee our own and England's salvation. No, money is today a little real value. We must have tangible resources, the courage to sacrifice and the character to keep our heads.

New Dealers Are Not Arguing Public Questions but Are Too Busy Challenging Honesty of Opponents

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 25.—It probably would be expecting too much to find the New Dealers arguing the merits of public questions rather than engaging in their favorite tactics of trying to impugn the honesty and integrity of their opponents. And to date that's the record.

The latest bit of verbal egg-throwing has come from Attorney General Jackson, who, in the fifteen minutes preceding President Roosevelt's speech on Wednesday night about "falsifying the record," indulged in quite a bit of falsifying on his own hook.

The whole Jackson speech was devoted to a thesis which isn't true—namely, that Wendell Willkie was more interested in the "profits of his friends" when he opposed the Russell-Overton amendment than he was in anything else. The Attorney General rashed the cry that the Republican nominee was willing to conscript youth, but not private property.

But what does the record show? It reveals that the Russell-Overton amendment was rejected by the Congress because it was unfair and would have sabotaged defense. Had it not been for Wendell Willkie's courageous fight, his willingness to run the risk of being misrepresented by the political smear captains of the campaign, it might have been in the law today.

It is interesting to note also that the precise plan which Mr. Willkie proposed to take care of recalcitrant firms making war weapons now has been adopted by the President in the form of a regulation.

The Attorney General ought to know that Mr. Willkie, who fought in France and entered the last war not as a captain, but as a "buck private," knows as much about what it means to risk one's life in battle as anybody in the present administration. To impugn his patriotism on the ground that he put profits above all else is to do some falsifying worthy only of those who prefer to attack a man's integrity and not to debate the issues.

If anybody is guilty of taking a step which would have meant sabotaging the defense program, it is the attorney general himself. The other day, in a purely political purpose, he wrote a letter, stating that firms merely accused, but not convicted in a court of violating the labor relations law could be construed as violators of the policy of the defense commission which, in a generally expressed statement, declared that defense contractors should comply with the labor laws.

Mr. Jackson's ruling had to be repudiated by the war and navy departments. Even close-mouthed William Knudsen, who keeps out of politics and tries to do a production job for the defense advisory commission, was compelled to say publicly that what the attorney general had ruled was "going too far." Then industry was reassured.

The tactics of the attorney general are not surprising. The entire New Deal has been trying ever since last summer to insult the intelligence of the American people by trying to tell them that what happened at the Philadelphia convention which nominated Willkie was all artificial, and that the telegrams came from financial interests.

It so happens that a national convention is observed by at least 500 reporters and radio commentators. Their almost unanimous report was that Mr. Willkie's nomination was a spontaneous development. Yet it suits the New Deal to insist on falsifying the record and to imply that Mr. Willkie bought his nomination.

This is a fatal error in tactics. Throughout the length and breadth of America where Wendell Willkie has travelled, he has succeeded in persuading his hearers that he is earnest, sincere and conscientious and, above all, that he is intellectually honest. There may be grounds on which to attack the economic reasoning of the Republican nominee. He is certainly no radical and has no sympathy with the communistic ideas of so many of the New Dealers, but an attack on that basis is understandable. What is incomprehensible is that the New Deal, after eight years, figures that all it needs to do to win a fight is to stir up class hatred, impute dishonesty and lack of integrity to everybody else and the masses of voters will go along with such versions of what is happening in public affairs.

The President's speech of Wednesday did not go deeply into the issues of the campaign at all, but insisted on going back to 1932 and the bank holiday. Mr. Roosevelt completely missed the peace issue. What the public today doesn't want is more denials of an intention to lead America into war, but an acknowledgment that the people will be consulted through their elected representatives, and not made the victims of an accomplished fact when it is too late for the people's voice to be heard.

Notwithstanding the fact that the sending of the 50 destroyers to England was approved by public opinion, the incident was viewed more from its emotional aspects of the moment than its long-range effects. Neither branch of Congress was consulted on what amounted to an act of war. The President guessed right at a time, but do the American people want one man to guess the answer to such questions all the time or do they wish at least the committees of both houses, comprising members of both political parties, to be consulted? That's the real issue—one-man government.

Once Mr. Roosevelt is given a third term, he will feel justified in construing it as a do-as-you-please mandate. A vote for a third term is a vote to let one man decide the issues of peace and war, and to let one man to guess the answer to such questions all the time or do they wish at least the committees of both houses, comprising members of both political parties, to be consulted? That's the real issue—one-man government.

Ink on My Hands

By Clayton Rand

Yankee Reporter

By S. Burton Heath

Flying a cheery indorsement from William Allen White at or near its masthead, Clayton Rand's "Ink on My Hands" comes as the third and in some ways the best, book about a country newspaperman this fall. It is one of those books which remind a man of a Christmas stocking; stuffed with good things all easily reached.

Mr. Rand spent his boyhood in poverty of two varieties. The first was Wisconsin poverty, the second Mississippi. His father, who was a man of parts, was also a lumber worker and life was a struggle for the Rand family.

Lumber was cut indiscriminately in those days and when an area was logged it was broke as well. Our hero put himself through a number of schools, one or two of which he was very glad to leave. His Mississippi schooling was earned by selling peanuts, and he left for Harvard with a considerable stake. Harvard was managed through a campaign of kitchenware selling which was as successful as the peanuts. But all that kept Rand from flunking out at one point was discovering a split infinitive in an inscription above one of Harvard's gates—since corrected.

Our author decided to be a lawyer, and returned to Mississippi. Then one day he went to a town called Nashville and began selling land; he owned the weekly newspaper almost before he knew what he was about, and he still owns it. Plus some others. The body of "Ink on My Hands" is the story of a country editor's growth as reflected in the things he was able to do for his town, for his state and eventually for the country as president of the National Editorial Association in 1936.

The other side of the picture can be had from S. Burton Heath's "Yankee Reporter." Heath is a Massachusetts native, brought up in Vermont. But his life as a kind of political overseer for the New York World Telegram, and his therefore deals with the over-political people who make the headlines because they live in the New York show-window. Mr. Heath's book is as different in style and content from Mr. Rand's as could be imagined and contains a good evaluation of metro-

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

One of the biggest upsets in political history in Kingston was the election held in 1913, when Palmer Canfield, Jr., defeated Mayor Roscoe Irwin by a plurality of 129. During the campaign Canfield had been dubbed "the boy candidate" and his election as mayor on the Republican ticket came as a great surprise.

Saturday evening, October 18, of that year, marked the opening of the Canfield campaign and for the first time in the city's history a candidate for mayor toured the streets in a truck and addressed open air rallies in various sections of the city.

As I recall it a heavy rain fell that evening, but that did not deter many of the voters and to hear Canfield speak, Mayor Canfield as later years show made one of the best mayors the city ever had.

Even today many of the old timers say "Canfield was ahead of the times." It was under the Canfield administration that Kingston first had supervised play and city playgrounds, and also the establishment of the board of public works to have charge of the streets, sewers and parks.

Willie pavement was first laid under the Canfield administration and many improvements were made to the city's street lighting system.

It will be recalled that Canfield served the city for four terms as mayor. He was mayor during the dark days of the World War.

It is also interesting to recall that while a political campaign was raging in Kingston in 1913, that the local Y.M.C.A. which that summer had moved into its new building was staging a membership campaign with the slogan "A 100 new members a day for 10 days."

The membership drive closed with a total enrollment of 1,111 members.

The education board held a special meeting on Tuesday afternoon, November 11, 1913, at which time the general contract for the erection of the Kingston High School was awarded to George T. Kelly of Yonkers, who submitted a bid of $173,800 which was $7,200 less than the next lowest bidder.

Man Shows Police Body of Boy He Says He Killed

Cincinnati, Oct. 25 (AP)—A man walked into central police station today, declared "I've wanted to kill someone ever since last October," then led officers to the body of 10-year-old Clarence Stevens, in the basement of Holy Name School in residential Mount Auburn.

Detective Chief Emmett D. Kirgan said the boy, a third-grade pupil in the school, had been stabbed to death. Major Hartman identified the suspect as Guy Willie Ponder, 27, who has been employed as a dishwasher at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. Ponder told officers he was confined in a hospital about two years ago for mental observation.

City Will Clean Out Water Mains

Service to Be Interrupted in Various Sections

If water users in Kingston are troubled with rusty water, in some sections of the city, during the next week or so, there need be no fear that it is due to "fifth column" activities. They are just cleaning out the mains.

Superintendent Henry D. Darrow of the water department said today that he expected to start the work of cleaning out the mains Saturday and it might take a week or so to complete the job.

Some work was done in June in an attempt to clear a portion of the mains from accumulations along the inside of the pipes, but it is understood that the system as a whole has never undergone a complete cleaning. All told there are about 16 miles of mains in the city water system, the first of which was laid in 1883. A second was put down in 1897 and a third about 1915.

During the work it will be necessary to cut off the water in certain sections of the city at different times for perhaps a day. Householders in such sections will be given notice before the service is interrupted.

A thorough cleaning of the mains is expected to result in a decided increase in the flow of water.

IN NEW YORK SENATOR RACE

Senator James M. Mead (left) of Buffalo and Rep. Bruce Barton (right) of New York are opposing candidates for the United States senatorship in the general election November 5. Mead, a Democrat, is running for re-election while Barton, a Republican congressman, seeks his first senatorial term.

dock builders and had come to Kingston to sign the contract, but the successful bidder had withdrawn his bid, intimating that if he accepted the job there would be labor trouble. None of the three bidders was unionized, said Mr. Christie.

Mr. Purcell called upon Mr. Hendrickson of the Marine Carpenters Union to explain what steps Mr. Christie could take in the matter.

Mr. Hendrickson said that as long as there were no union dock builders or union in this locality that any of the three dock builders who had submitted a bid could go ahead with the construction work and that the union men employed on the ship yard would not be pulled off the job.

Mr. Schoonmaker during the course of the lengthy discussion made it plain that he would not sign any agreement that called for a closed shop.

"We don't want a closed shop; we want a preferential shop," said Mr. Purcell.

Mr. Schoonmaker elaborated upon his position by saying that he was not desirous of being placed in a position of forcing men seeking work on the ship yard to become union members. "If some of the men do not want to join the union, I do not want to be placed in the position of driving them into the union," he said. "If the men want to join the union, well and good, but I do not believe it fair to force membership on any man."

After more than an hour had been consumed in discussion of open or closed shops, the union representatives asked for a brief recess until they could talk the matter over with the local committee and the visiting representatives from other locals who were present.

When the conference resumed Mr. Purcell informed Messrs. Christie and Schoonmaker that "the union could not see where the men had any protection unless there was a preferential shop."

With the conference apparently deadlocked the question was again argued pro and con.

"If the only thing you are worrying about," said Mr. Schoonmaker, "is protection of capable men, you have nothing to worry about. But I want it understood that I am going to run my own yard with my own foreman."

"I don't want to be tarred with the implication that I am unfair to labor," said Mr. Schoonmaker. He added that if he signed an agreement including the clause for a preferential shop that he would be so tagged.

Mr. Schoonmaker made it plain that he recognized the local union as a collective bargaining agency between the employers and the employees.

In outlining the union's position, Mr. Purcell made it plain that the local union had no desire to flood its membership. "What would be the use of having a membership of 500 when there was only work for 150 men," he said.

Mr. Schoonmaker contended that if a strong local organization was formed the local union would have no difficulty in getting men to join it. He said that this was the first attempt that had been made to unionize the workers in the ship yards along the Rondout creek. "I have no objection to a strong union, ably run, but I am opposed to forcing men to join the union," said Mr. Schoonmaker.

Mr. Purcell explained that if work increased on the ship yards and more men were needed that the union had no objection to the ship yards employing men who were not union members, but with the preferential clause in the contract it would mean that when work slowed down and it was necessary to lay men off the job, that the union men would be given preference in continuing at work.

Mr. Schoonmaker said that today there was a shortage of experienced ship yard workers in Kingston.

Mr. Christie said that if there were 10 experienced ship yard men idle in Kingston today he would put them to work at once, paying them the union scale of wages.

Web Puete, employed on the Christie yard, and one of the members of the local ship yard committee for the union, put the situation clearly as he saw it. He said, "We don't want to work alongside a non-union man for any length of time. If a non-union man is given work he should be given 10 days to two weeks to make up his mind to join the union or lose his job. If he didn't join the union at the expiration of that time there would be trouble on the yard."

"A preferential shop was the life of any union," said Mr. Purcell, and he did not see where the union was asking anything unreasonable.

The difference between a preferential shop and a closed shop as given by one of the business agents of the union was that in a preferential shop the union men were to receive the preference over all non-union men; while in the closed shop no one was to be employed or work in the yard unless he was a union man in good standing. In a preferential yard non-union men could be employed if not union men were available.

"I am afraid of how that clause 'preferential shop' would be used," said Mr. Schoonmaker. "I fear the word would go out that this is a preferential shop and non-union men will have to go."

Mr. Schoonmaker called attention to the fact that the local union had won an increase in the wage scale.

It will be recalled that the men on the ship yards struck last August for an increase in pay and shorter working hours.

As the discussion promised to last for considerable more time Mr. Christie said that "we are not so far apart as we were before we started. As I understand Mr. Purcell to say we can hire any man we please when work is brisk, but when the work slows up we should give the union men the preference."

He added that if a little more study was given the question the matter could be amicably ironed out, and suggested that another conference be held later.

Mr. Schoonmaker agreed with Mr. Christie and after talking the matter over it was decided to meet again on Friday, November 8.

Alfred F. Doyle
New Dodge Dealer

Will Feature Complete Service Department

A large advertisement in today's issue of The Freeman carries the announcement of the appointment of Alfred F. Doyle of 416 Washington avenue, as a local dealer for the Dodge-Plymouth automobiles.

Mr. Doyle has long been associated with the automotive business in Kingston, having been the local Packard dealer for some years and, more recently, having handled the Studebaker agency.

The Doyle garage on Washington avenue will feature a complete service department for Dodge and Plymouth automobiles besides displaying the latest models offered by Dodge and Plymouth.

WOODSTOCK

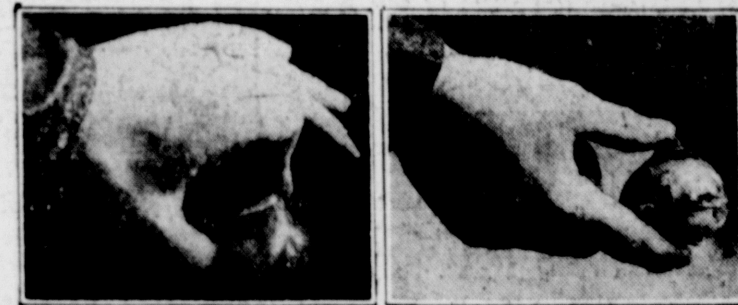

Woodstock, Oct. 24—The Woodstock Fire Company was called out Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock to extinguish a fire on the property of Paul Burlin on the Saugerites road. Upon arrival it was found that it was a brush fire which had reached rather alarming proportions, but the firemen had no difficulty in extinguishing it and no damage was done.

Mrs. St. Julian Ravelle was operated upon at the Kingston Hospital Wednesday.

The Christian Science Society moved its headquarters from the Comeau building to the small chapel where services will be continued during the winter.

These Simple Rules Guide You in Planting Bulbs

Fall Bulbs and Their Best Planting Depths

Of all garden subjects, the bulbs are probably the easiest to plant and the most certain to bloom. It is almost impossible to plant the modern bulbs without some kind of success when spring rolls around.

Because they are so obliging, however, does not mean that they should be planted without regard to their likes and dislikes. The tiny scilla bulbs should manifestly not be planted so deep as the huge narcissus bulb. When beginning operations, consult a chart of planting depths, or read carefully the directions on the package making sure that bulbs of each type are planted about the same depth, so that they will appear simultaneously in the spring.

A good rule to follow when in doubt, is to plant on the deep side. In other words less harm will be done from planting too deep, than too shallow. In the case of candidum lilies, the converse is true, and these giant bulbs, which appear to want at least 6 inches, need but a scant 3 inches.

Tulips will burrow through 18 inches, but 5 to 6 inches is the proper planting depth. The crocus, snowdrop and scilla should be planted 2 to 3 inches below the soil. The lilies need the deepest planting. The stem-rooters can go a full foot deep with good results. The distance apart is a matter of preference, although 5 inches should be the minimum.

Drainage is an important part of any bulb planting, and every precaution should be taken to avoid standing water, or over-soaked beds, which will cause rotting of the bulbs. In cases where doubt arises as to what will occur during the wet days of early spring, or where the soil is particularly heavy, raise the bed about 6 inches from the level of the garden.

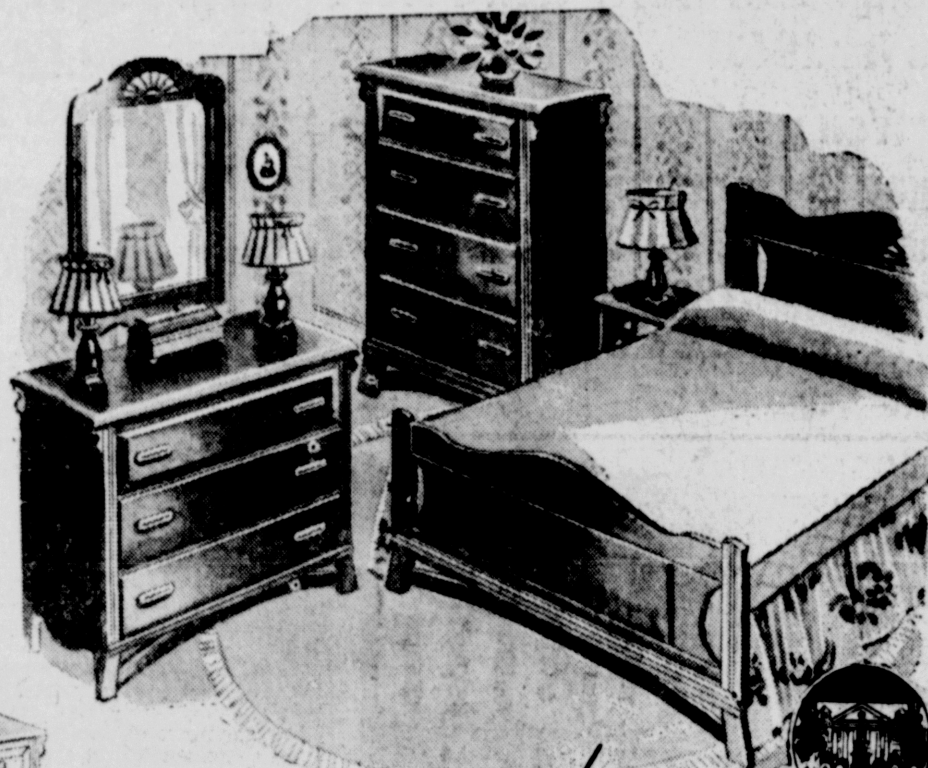

Bulbs do not need a very rich soil, as they have considerable food stored up in themselves. An application of plant food will however, help them to produce bigger flowers. Do not apply a barnyard manure, as they have a particular aversion to it.

SAUGERTIES NEWS

Saugerties, Oct. 25.—The Rev. John E. Greening, pastor of the First Baptist Church of this place, was in Pittsfield, Mass., last Friday evening where he addressed the Men's Bible Class of the Y. M. C. A.

John Gleicher of this place is in the Kingston Hospital where he is receiving treatment. Mr. Gleicher is connected with the Sportswear Co., on Partition street.

The registration for the coming election in the Town of Saugerties is unusually heavy with over 6,000 names on the books. This is more than in previous years.

Miss Julia Miller of the local school faculty has returned to this village from the Kingston Hospital where she underwent an operation.

The Town Board of Saugerties paid a visit to the highways in the township last Friday. The board members found the 121 miles of roadway in excellent condition.

Mrs. Charles Imperato, Lucille Imperato, Anna Imperato, of Barclay Heights, were visitors at the World's Fair Sunday.

Mrs. Edith Doyle and friend and sons, Robert Doyle and Joseph Doyle, of Livingston street, have returned from visiting Mrs. Katherine Gelson in Brooklyn, Mrs. Gelson was Miss Katherine Doyle, of this village.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Doscher, Sr., of Barclay Heights, will spend the next few months in Brooklyn.

Members of Rebekah Lodge, No. 34, of this village will attend the installation of Atharhacton Lodge officers in Kingston, Thursday evening, October 24. A bus will leave the Odd Fellows Temple on Main street at 7:15 p. m.

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Jennie Davi of Glasco to Joseph Aiello of the same place was made at a dinner party at the home of Mrs. Angelina Davi Sunday afternoon. The wedding is expected to take place in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Manuel, Mr. and Mrs. George Delaney, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Erceg, of this town attended the World's Fair Sunday.

On Friday, November 1, the Willkie-McNary sound truck will pay a visit to Glasco, Saugerties and Malden. This truck will tour Ulster county for the remainder of the campaign.

A concert by the Maverick Chamber Music Society will be presented at the First Congregational Church, Friday evening, November 15. Several community organizations are sponsoring this affair.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Modjeska of the Saugerties-Kingston highway. Mr. and Mrs. Emil Roedel of Barclay Heights have closed their house here and will reside in New York for the winter months.

The Selective Service Board has become established in this village with headquarters in the Saugerties High School building, Room 1. The board members are Grant D. Morse, chairman, William R. Johnson, secretary and Charles C. Roach, of Kingston the other member. Miss Rosemary Doyle has been appointed clerk. The appointment of Attorney Benjamin Rowe of Partition street as government appeal agent for the local draft board has been announced. The office has had a telephone installed and the number is 570.

On Friday of last week the Chikong group of Camp Fire Girls with their guardian, Mrs. John Lowther enjoyed a hike to Malden, where they visited the fishing grounds and docks. A fire was built and the girls had lunch before returning to their homes in this village.

The Twentieth Century Class of the Congregational Church will hold a Halloween social in the church chapel Friday evening.

Grant D. Morse of Ulster avenue and Charles Roach of Kingston has returned from Peekskill where they attended the meeting of Selective Service Boards from eight counties.

Franklin Auer and Merriell Garrison, both young men from Quarryville have enlisted in the United States Navy and are now stationed at the Naval Training School in Newport, R. I.

Mayor Frank Tongue and Mrs. Tongue of Main street have left for a motor trip through the southern states.

George B. Ohley, a director in the Hudson Valley Firemen's Association attended the meeting held Sunday in the Exempt Firemen's home at Poughkeepsie.

Mrs. Clyde Farris and son, who have been spending the summer with her mother, Mrs. Eva Terwilliger on Elm street, have returned to California where they reside.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Whitaker of Elm street spent the past Sunday visiting the New York World's Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Newton Myers of Montgomery street were week-end guests of relatives in Utica.

The police department has been instructed to enforce the traffic ordinance of the village. To avoid paying a fine motorists are asked to use utmost care in complying with the traffic regulations.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith of Livingston street attended the funeral of the late Isaiah Fellows at Cohoes, Monday afternoon.

Mrs. John E. Greening of Market street has returned from attending the New York World's Fair.

The Saugerties basketball league held a meeting at the Service Center on Main street, Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hackett of Elm street, have returned from a motor trip through northern New York state.

Albert Perks of Elm street is spending several days with relatives in Cortland.

Michael Judge of the New York State Police, who has been doing duty in this vicinity through the summer months, has been recalled to Troop C barracks.

CANDIDATES WALK OUT ON WALLACE

pro football is a minor item around here, the Redskins average more than 30,000 spectators each game—and that's about one person in every 22 of Washington's population.)

If there ever before was a capital party like that given for Sister Pascaline de St. Simon to celebrate her 76th birthday and the fiftieth anniversary of the day she started begging alms. She has stood outside the government buildings in all kinds of weather since before the Spanish-American war. The party was a fine affair. There were flowers and food and singing and many guests. But Sister Pascaline was not there. The vows of the Little Sisters of the Poor forbade such pomp and frivolity. Throughout the party, she stayed—and helped—in the kitchen.

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinnett

Washington—Just on the chance that you think Washington never talks about anything but war and politics, I'll itemize some of the capital chatter that hasn't anything to do with either. For instance, Washington wonders—

If Bing Crosby, who turned up in a benefit golf exhibition here recently, isn't about as good a sport and sportsman as Badgad on the Pacific ever turned out. He shoots 18 holes in the seventies, signing 22 autographs between each stroke.

If there really is any possibility that the supreme court will come down with a decision making it unlawful for the $1.98 boys to copy those veddy, veddy exclusive models turned out by the $99.98 designers of ladies' chapeaux. There is an appeal before the tribunal now calling for some kind of a ruling.

Which members of local society guffawed and which ones gasped at the shower of bawdy patter coming from the National stage on the season's first "first night." The play was "Suzanna and the Elders." It is a story of a socialistic utopia of the 19th century, and while the failure of socialism in such efforts as Brook Farm occupies much of the dialogue, so do such matters as "breeding committees" to instruct young folks how to bring forth a race of supermen. Jack Kirkland, who still has "Tobacco Road," produced "Suzanna," but it is far from that bad—or that good.

Envoy's Daughters a "Hit"

How soon Charlie Chaplin will get here in "The Dictator." And whether "The Baker's Wife" isn't the most delightful foreign movie ever shown here.

When they are going to get through with the unsightly sewer construction work in otherwise beautifully autumn-hued Rock Creek park.

If the Boyd sisters, Mildred, Edith and Elena, daughters of the Ambassador of Panama, might not make as big a hit as the Andrews sisters, Laverne, Patty and Maxene, if the Boyds ever took up one of several offers to go into the movies or on the stage. Boyds and Andrews met there the other day for a little community sing.

Kiwanians Learn About Sanitation

Harry Edinger, an engineer with the division of sanitation, State Department of Health, was the guest speaker at the luncheon meeting of Kiwanis at the Governor Clinton Thursday.

Mr. Edinger told Kiwanians that modern sanitation work really had its start long ago back in Amsterdam when the janitor of a school in that city learned to grind lenses for a microscope (the first compound microscope is believed to have been made in 1590 by a Hollander named Zacharias Jansen). It was the microscope that helped Pasteur, Koch and others in tracing the germ theory of disease, which really is at the base of sanitary engineering.

In their work against disease, or in preventing disease, the sanitary engineers seek to break into cycles of infection, raising a barrier of some kind, or cutting off an animal or insect host that is spreading the germs. Thus all the codes and laws for the protection of water supply, milk supply and providing for protection of health generally, have this end in view. Mr. Edinger said that a small per cent of the sanitary inspector's work is police work, mostly it is "just getting around." There are 19 district offices in the state, the Kingston district covering Ulster and Greene counties, with a summer population of around half a million people. An idea of the large amount of work entailed in proper sanitary supervision of the area is gained from the statement that there are in the district about 300 organization camps of all kinds and about 2,000 summer boarding houses and hotels.

Sanitary work for disease prevention is making progress, Mr. Edinger said, and there is comparatively little opposition these days. There is more friendly reception, not only from individuals but from organization groups, while "lots of the hard headedness" in town and village groups is dying off. People realize that the work being done is for their own good.

Engineer P. Edwin Clark of Ellenville, who besides being kept busy at his profession these days is president of the Board of Education, was a guest at Thursday's meeting, and greeted many old friends.

R. L. Vann Dies

Pittsburgh, Oct. 25. (AP)—Robert L. Vann, 61, Negro boy from the backwoods of Ahoskie, N. C., who became a prominent publisher and a national political leader of his race, died last night. Vann, born of slave parents, received a law degree from the University of Pittsburgh in 1909 and the following year embarked on a double career as an attorney and newspaper publisher. A founder of the Pittsburgh weekly "Courier," he was its editor from 1912 until his death, making it what he claimed to be the most widely circulated and influential of Negro newspapers.

Body Is Found

Salisbury Beach, Mass., Oct. 25. (AP)—The bruised and battered body of Mrs. Olive Farrell, 45, part owner of a seaside hotel, was found in the surf today by two police officers. Authorities who said she had apparently been strangled, held a special police officer for questioning.

Mrs. Finger Hurt When Hit by CarTwo Other Women Struck and Slightly Injured

Mrs. H. Clinton Finger of Mt. Marion, wife of Deputy County Clerk Finger in charge of the Motor Vehicle Bureau, is at the Kingston Hospital as a result of injuries she suffered Tuesday evening near the Mt. Marion church hall where she was going to attend a ladies night of the Men's Club of the church.

Mrs. Finger suffered a badly broken left arm near the shoulder and also two fractured ribs when struck down by a car operated by Alfred Martin of Mt. Marion.

Mrs. Finger was brought to the Kingston Hospital where the severe nature of the break of her arm has made it necessary to reset the break three times. In company with Mrs. Estelle Miller and Miss Ella Finger of Mt. Marion, Mr. Finger was walking to the church hall when the car driven by young Martin and owned by his mother backed from the church grounds and struck the three women.

It was dark at the time and it is said there were no lights on the car. Mr. Finger was first knocked down but was not seriously injured. Mrs. Miller suffered a concussion and Miss Finger escaped with slight injuries. The driver of the car apparently was not aware of what object his car had struck and as Mrs. Finger arose the car was again backed out and Mrs. Finger was run over. The accident happened on the church property, near the roadway not far from where the car usually is kept under the church shed.

Mrs. Finger's condition today at the hospital was reported as improved.

Body Found in Hudson

Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., Oct. 25. (AP)—The body of an elderly woman, believed to be Rachel Marvin of 616-20 West 115th street, New York city, was found floating in the Hudson river north of Gould dock yesterday. The woman's clothes yielded a wallet containing $230 in bill, a $20 gold piece and a rent receipt. George Thaler, renting agent said the dead woman also was known as "Miss Butterfield," a retired school teacher and writer. She had given the name of Gustave Harlan of Marshall, Ill., as a kin.

HITLER DEMANDS FRENCH AID IN WAR, REBUILDING

Fuehrer Is Desirous of Moral Help

French Acceptance of His Terms Would End All Hope of Revival of Democracy

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Adolph Hitler will have made a great stride—at least on paper—toward consolidation of his conquests if the French government accedes to the new Nazi terms for Franco-German cooperation which he is understood to have discussed with Premier Marshal Petain yesterday at their meeting "somewhere in France."

These demands are said to involve even a moderate French cooperation in the war against England, as well as participation in the reconstruction of Europe under the Fuehrer's plans for a "new order."

Their acceptance would seem to wipe out the last vestige of chance that democracy may sprout again in unhappy France if the totalitarian dictators win the war.

As I said yesterday, I believe that Hitler's move cuts far deeper than any mere preparation for another offensive against Britain, although that undoubtedly figures in his plans. To my mind, the support which he seeks from France is chiefly moral rather than material, his idea being to safeguard himself in the event of a stalemate in the war with Britain.

Would Remove Obstacle
If he can secure French moral support, or even open acquiescence, unwilling though it undoubtedly will be, he will have removed one of the chief obstacles to his grandiose scheme for remoulding the continent into a unit whose sole business will be to contribute to the might of Germany.

The all-important obstacle which he has to eliminate is, of course, the British empire—of which more anon. That is a continuing program.

If Marshall Petain and his government decide to play along with Hitler it surely will represent an act of expediency rather than of desire to be associated with Nazism. Whatever action the aged war-hero takes undoubtedly will be recorded, even by his opponents, as an act performed in pursuit of patriotic duty.

The choice of the French government is a bitter one. If it accepts the Nazi terms it may get a modification of the fierce conditions under which it labors, and the release of some of its occupied territory. If it refuses, the country faces even greater torment and privations than it now endures.

Petain's Business
Petain must feel that his business is to salvage as much of his country as he can from Germany. His government must, of course, be Fascist for cooperation with his conqueror.

But after all, the question surely has arisen in his mind as to whether the precise form of government matters much under the present trying circumstances.

It is French territory that counts right now—the actual land. Governments may come and governments may go, but the soil of France will remain.

What would you yourself do under such conditions? Would you grasp at the soil of your fatherland and cling to it with all your strength, or would you feel that there was some stronger call to answer?

Then there's another problem which the aged Marshal must face. He must get peace so that his people can get back to work. They need food, and they're going to need it a lot more desperately before this coming winter is over.

Powerful Motive
Believe me, who saw it in the World War, the pinched and hungry faces of little children provides a powerful motive for desperate action.

It would seem that Vice-Premier Laval, who twice has been Premier of France, is the active influence in the Petain government. He probably is the man behind the gun in arranging for a discussion of the Nazi terms.

Laval is an adroit politician and a smooth worker. My impression of him from personal contact is that he would be a tough opponent in a poker game. He had a preliminary conference with the Nazi authorities on the terms, and I should say that he would have driven as hard a bargain as anyone could with the Fuehrer.

The former Premier is credited with being ambitious, but many believe that if he is smart he will satisfy himself with being the power behind the throne and keep Marshal Petain at the head of the government. The people of France adore the old soldier and they trust him. They will follow his advice where they wouldn't follow that of Laval.

Laval has a notable precedent before him in the procedure of Hitler himself. You will recall that when aged President Von Hinden-

Presidential candidate's campaign train as it paused in Erie, Pa., en route to Akron, Ohio. Willkie, speaking from his private car in the small farming community of Harbor Creek, just outside Erie, told a national radio audience that President Roosevelt had failed to keep campaign pledges, had been unable to bring re-employment and had contributed to the rise of dictatorships.

Nurse Committees Hold 2nd Annual Regional Meeting

State Health Officials Talk at Conference; Miss Sheahan Tells of Public Work

The second annual regional conference of the Public Health Nursing Committee of Ulster County was held Thursday afternoon at the Governor Clinton Hotel with a large group of county and state officials and laymen in attendance.

The conference opened at 10:30 o'clock with round table discussions on various subjects. Groups for presidents of the nursing committees was led by Mrs. Theodor Oxholm, with discussions on plans for the county committee's year, radio broadcasts and plans for the third annual conference.

The treasurer's and finance committee members met with Mrs. Paul Bailey, the secretaries and publicity chairmen with Mrs. Walter Perret and the nurses' aid groups with Mrs. Fred Andrews, Mrs. Harry Eppes and Mrs. Marion Richards.

The round table groups adjourned for luncheon at 12:30 in the Crystal room of the hotel followed by the afternoon session which was open to the public.

Dr. Ingraham Speaks
Dr. Hollis S. Ingraham, district state health officer, presided at the afternoon session and introduced the speakers, Marion W. Sheahan, director of the division of public health nursing, New York State Department of Health, and Dr. Paul B. Brooks, deputy commissioner, New York State Department of Health.

Dr. Ingraham, in his opening remarks, said that the purpose of the health program was to help keep the nation well. "The better the health and health knowledge, the better we will survive the disturbing days ahead. Trying a little harder and working a little faster are the aims fundamental to the maintenance of the health of the country in peace and war."

Dr. Ingraham concluded by saying that the health officials are particularly pleased in the interest and efforts shown by the laywomen of the county and the help they are extending to the public health nurses.

Tells of Work
Miss Marion Sheahan was the first speaker of the afternoon. Miss Sheahan reviewed the work of the public health nurse and why such a person is needed in the community. "The nurse is the visible symbol of the health program," Miss Sheahan said. Itemizing the public health program, she listed the three criteria that it must meet; first the problem as it was widespread in the community, state and nation; second, the fund of scientific knowledge if applied to the problems that it must lend itself to the community organization, and third, the community problems vs. the private problems.

The community projects its program to the people in three ways, she pointed out, by restrictive measures, by the sanitary code of the state and by education.

The modern public health nurse goes into the homes with the burg, beloved of all Germany, raised him to the Chancellorship the future "Fuehrer" bided his time for assumption of power until the marshal was dead.

It's No Use
Burlington, N. C. (AP)—A Burlington attorney argued that if his client was guilty of driving while drunk a policeman was guilty of aiding and abetting because the officer allowed the defendant to drive his car to headquarters after ascertaining his condition. The argument was of no avail, however.

knowledge of what to teach and has a scientific background which enables her to adapt the facts to each particular situation. The modern public health nurse has added to her traditional role the ability to teach in accordance to the facilities of the home and is greatly aided by the community loan closets which have been created for her by the nursing committees.

In conclusion Miss Sheahan said, "Behind each visit of the public health nurse is a service based on logical, practical and proven facts, and the assurance that in the next 25 years her results will be even greater than those obtained in the last 25 years. This gives us justification for thinking that if we are to be a nation to withstand the pressure of war, we must build a healthy nation to withstand the pressure of a nation at peace."

Miss Sheahan reiterated the goal of the nursing committee, that the increased interest in public health work and assisting nursing committees would bring about the demand for one nurse for every 5,000 people and later one nurse for every 2,000 people who will do protective work and aid in the case of illness.

Dr. Brooks, who is also known to radio fans as Dr. Jones, presented one of his clever and humorous character skits of a country doctor and other country characters. The skit, written by Dr. Brooks especially for the conference, was "It Pays to Advertise." Miss Marion Irving of the local health office assisted Dr. Brooks.

The last half of the afternoon session was devoted to the presidents' reports given by Mrs. William Hooke, town of Ulster; Mrs. DeWitt Crowell, town of Shawangunk; Mrs. Arthur McK. Acker, town of Lillian Paltridge, town of Plattkill; Mrs. E. Davenport, town of Rochester; Mrs. William Cruickshank, town of Shandaken; Mrs. Charles C. Walden, Jr., town of Marlborough; Mrs. James Callahan, town of Lloyd, and Mrs. Edgar Clarke, town of Marlborough.

Mrs. Theodor Oxholm stated plans for 1941. These included the third annual meeting, classes in nutrition, the use of a new moving picture machine, and a float to be entered at the next Apple Blossom parade.

Five Nurses Are Sought
The committee hopes to establish five public health nurses in Ulster county to care for the population, and this aim was accepted at the conference Thursday as the goal of the Ulster County Public Health Nursing Committee.

Of interest to the public as well as to those attending the conference was a new trailer belonging to the state health department for use in dental care of pre-school children. The trailer is attractively furnished with the latest of new and complete equipment. A waiting room for the mothers and children is at one end with red leather upholstered seats and at the far end is a room for developing X-ray pictures.

This trailer will travel around the county to bring dental attention to those pre-school children who would otherwise be unable to have it. A dental hygienist has already made a preliminary examination and the trailer will soon be ready to act on her reports.

Patterson Has Fear Free Press in U. S. Is Now in Danger

Toledo Editor Says Public 'Is Being Conditioned' to Permit Abolition; Blames Bureaus

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Oct. 25 (AP)—Grove Patterson, editor of the Toledo Blade, claims the American public "is being conditioned to accept the abolition" of a free press.

Addressing the National Advertisers' Association convention last night, he said such abolition would remove "our right as newspapers to print the news without distortion and our right to comment on the news—our right to take sides and to be vigilant in our watchfulness for the preservation of the American way."

He urged delegates to make a united stand against "common enemies" among "an ignorant bureaucracy that day by day lays down a barrage in a desperate effort to make us retreat toward an equalitarian destination. Destruction of a free press is the 'first and essential step' in such a campaign, he added.

Patterson asserted that "bureaucrats" were "trying to plant the seeds of suspicion and distrust in the minds of newspaper readers, so that if or when the time comes, they will be justified in taking over and destroying, either by regimentation or economic pressure, free newspapers."

He said Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes and Senator Sherman Minton (D., Ind.) were among such "bureaucrats."

He continued: "The public is being conditioned to accept the abolition of your right as manufacturers and advertisers to engage in whatever businesses you please and to say what you will, within the bounds of common honesty, about the products you make."

Remarking that the effectiveness of national advertising in newspapers needed no further proof, he asked the delegates to remember that their advertising dollars were necessary to give the press the independence necessary to survive.

"We cannot have an intellectually and a morally free press unless we are economically free," he said. "A newspaper, however free from governmental regulations, cannot really and actually be free unless it is profitable. And we cannot remain economically free unless you continue to use our advertising columns."

The editor challenged a statement by President Roosevelt that his administration had received "unfair" newspaper treatment. Patterson said that polls of newspaper readers showed that by large majorities they believed that both the Democratic and Republican parties had been treated fairly by the press.

Secretary Gives Reason for Stupor

Woman in Bellevue Says She Was Social Failure

New York, Oct. 25 (AP)—A 29-year-old Chicago secretary, recovering from a drug-induced stupor which lasted 10 days, tried to end her life, she told police, because she considered herself a social failure.

The woman, Marian Nevins, told Detective Hyman Weinstein she took 100 grains of sleeping potion in a fashionable hotel, the Pierre, because she wanted to die "in style."

"I failed all my life, and now I've failed at that," he quoted her as saying.

Weinstein said the young woman had been employed as a secretary by a Chicago candy company. She quit her job October 12 and bought a train ticket for New York.

Hotel attendants found her in a death-like sleep October 14. There was nothing to identify her except her fictitious registration, "Mary Rogers, New York city." When she regained consciousness, she identified herself and told her story. Doctors said no one in the history of Bellevue Hospital ever emerged from a stupor as deep and prolonged as her's.

Weinstein said she declared the 10 days of unconsciousness seemed like only a few minutes.

GRANGE NEWS

The Asbury Grange held its regular meeting Monday night.

Plans were made for a trip to Schenectady to help celebrate the birthday party of station WGY. A number are going for the day. Tentative plans are also being made to attend the national Grange in Syracuse in November.

The recent turkey supper was discussed. As usual it was a great success.

The newly organized dart ball teams played after the meeting. The ladies beating the men—also as usual.

Refreshments were enjoyed. American railroads use about 1,286,000 miles of telephone and telegraph wires in their operations.

Doctor Asks Mothers Of Eight Be Sterilized

Boston, Oct. 25 (AP)—"Sterilization in all women who have had eight or more children" was advocated today by Dr. Nicholson J. Eastman, Johns Hopkins University obstetrician, as a method of reducing maternal mortality.

Addressing a meeting honoring Dr. Walter Channing, founder of the 108-year-old Boston Lying-in Hospital, he added:

"In an analysis of 45,515 consecutive deliveries, we have found that women who have borne eight or more children experience three times the maternal mortality in subsequent pregnancies, and twice the stillbirth mortality met by women in the lower (child-bearing) brackets."

Sanford Finishes Round of Clinics

Last One Held Downtown at Rapid Hose Station

Dr. L. E. Sanford, health officer, held the last of the series of round town free clinics to immunize children from diphtheria and to vaccinate them when desired, on Thursday afternoon at the Rapid Hose house on Hone street.

At the clinic yesterday 43 children were vaccinated and 23 were immunized against diphtheria.

The total number of children vaccinated at the five round town clinics was 177, while 75 children were immunized against diphtheria.

The clinics were held in the Hobby House on Mill street, Excelsior House on Hurley avenue, Twaalfskill House, Cordts House and Rapid Hose.

While yesterday was the last of the series of round town clinics held the health department will continue to hold the weekly clinics at the city hall each Tuesday afternoon.

Hoover Accuses F.D.R. Of Creating Bank Panic By Tinkering Currency

Former President Says Nation Was On Way to Recovery in 1932 and Says He Resents Smears and New Deal Falsehoods

Columbus, O., Oct. 25 (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover accused the New Deal last night of creating a "bank panic" in 1933.

He told a radio audience that "we were on the way to recovery" when Franklin D. Roosevelt succeeded him as President.

Then, he added, "Mr. Roosevelt violated a promise not to tinker with the currency, and created a bank panic in the United States."

Hoover criticized the President for "smearing" the preceding Republican administration in Wednesday night's speech.

"Mr. Roosevelt said the leaders were willing to let the people starve in 1932," he asserted. "Mr. Roosevelt denounces falsification. So do I."

Hoover declared that the President's address "seemed to indicate that I was his opponent and this still was the 1932 campaign."

"Well," he added, "he is mistaken. I should think it would be ill-advised to raise the memories of promises that won that campaign."

He said that 18,000,000 persons were on relief when Mr. Roosevelt took office, but the relief "in my administration was under non-political, non-corrupt local committees."

"Mr. Roosevelt destroyed that," Hoover asserted, "and placed relief under a central bureaucracy. And there are still 18,000,000 persons under federal relief."

"Under assumptions of personal power," he added, "we are steadily drifting toward war. And one result of the use of these powers has been to stifle the restoration of productive employment, and a prosperous agriculture, and to involve the peace of the American people."

While not suggesting that "Mr. Roosevelt aspires to be a dictator," Hoover said the President has built personal power to a "dangerous point" and "there are forces and men around him who are implacably pushing further and further in that direction."

Every dictator in Europe has risen as legislative bodies yielded powers in the name of emergency, Hoover asserted, and added: "Nobody will deny that the majority of the Congress has been reduced to a rubber stamp for the executive."

Furthermore, the former president said, the U. S. Supreme Court has been "weakened steadily with complaisant appointments."

Negligence Case Gets Under Way

Action Is for Damages in Crossing Accident

A jury was taken this morning for trial of a negligence action brought by Calogero Ligotino of Highland against the Erie Railroad Co., to recover damage to his Dodge truck which was struck by an Erie train at a crossing south of Harriman in November of 1934. The case was once before trial and resulted in a verdict for $500. That verdict was set aside and a new trial granted. Mr. Ligotino and his son were on route from New York to their home at the time of the accident. They had detoured over the grade crossing and when at the crossing the truck stalled at the crossing and was struck by the train. Mr. Ligotino and his son left the truck and were not injured.

A. W. Lent and H. A. Lent appear for the plaintiff and Watts, Oakes and Bright are attorneys of record for the railroad. The jury was selected at the opening of court and trial of the action was taken up shortly before noon.

Negro Is Elevated To General's Post; First in History

announcement said, "the activities and the size of our manufacturing arsenals and depots. This expansion cannot be carried out without proper leadership and proper rank must be accorded to these leaders. The temporary promotions are essential to meet the requirements of the present phase of this expansion."

The promotion of Major General Emmons to be lieutenant general as commander of the army's mobile general headquarters a force brought a war department announcement that the CHQ force would revert to a previous status directly under command of the chief of staff.

In recent months General Emmons had been responsible to Major General Henry H. Arnold, chief of the air corps, but with his promotion will outrank Arnold.

Colonel Davis, highest ranking of a relative handful of negro army officers, has had 42 years of military service. A native of Washington, D. C., he is 63.

He entered the army as a first lieutenant of volunteers in a negro infantry regiment in the Spanish-American War. Mustered out in 1899, Davis re-enlisted and served two years in the ranks before being given an appointment as second lieutenant of cavalry.

Promoted to colonel in 1930, he now commands the 369th anti-aircraft coast artillery regiment of the New York National Guard.

The war department said that as brigadier general, Davis would command a brigade of the second cavalry division which is yet to be formed. Officials said it would be composed of negro troops.

Reaffirming his belief in New Deal social legislation, Willkie said that further gains should be made. He mentioned specifically an aim "to make old age a time of contentment and security; a time of rest and independence." Furthermore, he said, the government should put all its power behind a drive to abolish city slums and give "decent housing to all our people."

"America should be a land where there is no wrong side of the railroad tracks," he added, "and we will make it just that."

En route to Akron, Willkie made brief talks in western Pennsylvania communities and at Warren, O. His train was behind schedule because of the half hour stop at Harbor Creek, Pa., for his radio reply to the President's speech.

In that extemporaneous talk he asserted that the New Deal's record of broken promises and failures of performance is so staggering as to shock the faith of the American people. Declaring that any industrial improvement from armament manufacture was a false rise, he contended:

"If we do not stimulate our domestic economy, it is inevitable that the United States at the completion of its defense program will have one of the greatest panics in history."

WAR SCARE

In Europe there's a horror war. We hope to keep it from our shore. And yet there seems to be a sense of entering into this affair. It takes the goodness out of life, and leaves the world in bitter strife. It is a grim, gruesome fight; surely it cannot be right.

Weather forecast for period 7 p. m. October 25 to 7 p. m. October 30 inclusive:
Middle Atlantic states: Considerable cloudiness with rising temperature Saturday and Sunday followed by showers Sunday and Sunday night. Moderate rains and cooler Monday night and Tuesday. Temperature will average somewhat above normal until about Monday and considerably below normal by Wednesday.

Conference Opens
Bombay, India, Oct. 25 (AP) — Lord Linlithgow, viceroy of India, today opened at New Delhi a conference of British empire units of the middle and far east intended to increase the flow of war materials to the Mediterranean-African war theatre and to Britain.

Hot SPARKS
In Europe there's a horror war. We hope to keep it from our shore. And yet there seems to be a sense of entering into this affair. It takes the goodness out of life, and leaves the world in bitter strife. It is a grim, gruesome fight; surely it cannot be right.

THE ROAD TO SHANI LUN

YESTERDAY: Caught in a Chinese revolution, Lynn Britton and Temu Darin are doing what they can to help the refugees, while they wait for some way to complete their journey to Shani Lun. Peggy Telford, a friend of Lynn's from America, is resting in the monastery where they have found refuge. Lynn is wondering whether it may be possible to escape going to Shani Lun, because once there she must marry the Prince of the country, whom she has never seen.

Chapter 26

Bullets Again

LYNN marvelled at the fortitude of these peasant people. All the patients walked away from the dressing station unaided except the poor woman who died lying in one corner of the room, while Lynn bathed her face in cool water. One patient, carrying the green flag of a messenger, had a special message for Temu.

"Wish to tell me what it is?" Lynn asked.

He hesitated and then shook his head. "It's not good news for me," he said whimsically, "or I'd tell you."

Lynn regarded him with bright eyes, half sympathetic and yet half hopeful that his bad news was her good news. "Is my government searching for me at last?" she asked.

"I understand your story made quite a sensation in Nanking when our tourist friends related it," he admitted, "but I shan't tell you another word." They smiled at each other. She put her hand to her heart.

"Something tells me here," she said, "that I shall go to Delun only of my own free will." The laughter had died out of his eyes.

"Perhaps you are right," he said heavily and turned to his work. Lynn thought she had never before seen him so depressed.

At eleven o'clock he sent her back to the old lama's house to rest, and called the priest from his prayers before the temple.

"You can pray and help me too," he said.

Lynn went reluctantly; there was so much to be done. But her sensibilities were not hardened to the dreadful cases presented to them. She found Peggy walking disconsolately up and down the courtyard. A servant monk brought them each a bowl of stew from the abbot's kitchen along with a squat, brown pot of tea.

Lynn slipped an hour or so and then Peggy begged her to go for a walk on the ridge above the monastery.

"We'll take field-glasses and perhaps we can see planes coming to our rescue," she offered hopefully. "You'd think Sam would be doing something by now. I have a feeling that he was surprised that I didn't charter a plane and follow him—as I would have done had it been possible."

Lynn laughed as she combed her hair, which had grown long, and twisted it into a shining knot at the back of her neck. "Yes," she said, "unless Temu Darin had failed to come to the rescue."

Peggy smiled. "Well, he did come to the rescue! And it'll be a good lesson to Sam."

"Do you find Temu Darin as attractive as you thought you would?" Lynn asked curiously.

Peggy pondered a moment. "In some ways more attractive; he reminds me of a man with a secret love or a priest whose bride is the church."

"You've come pretty close to it," thought Lynn, and was tempted to add, "His bride is his sense of duty to his Prince."

Peggy helped Lynn with her coat while she spoke with seeming carelessness. "There is nothing between you and him, is there?"

Lynn parried. "Why do you ask?"

"It's hard to explain," Peggy regarded her intently. "It's not in what you say or do, but sometimes when you're standing together I get the oddest impression—as if you two belonged to a secret world of your own, different from mine; as if you'd been through things together of which I know nothing. Where were you both last night?"

"Sitting on the roof looking at the stars and quoting poetry," Lynn answered, taking the field-glasses from a shelf and handing them to Peggy.

"Did he hold your hand?"

Lynn laughed shortly. "Not he."

"That's a clever way for a man to behave with a girl like you," scoffed Peggy. "Do you think you could fall in love with him?"

Fear of Love

"FALLING in love is losing one's identity. I'm afraid of it. Sam can't come to our rescue too soon to please me."

Peggy stared. "I believe you are afraid."

Lynn colored. "I believe I'd be a fool if I really fell in love, Peggy. I'd take it hard, as some people take religion; as Temu takes his loyalty to his Prince, fanatically. Let's go."

They stepped into the courtyard. Tsong, the little shaven-headed Buddha with the bandaged wrist, was waiting there in his gay, red silk robe and skull cap. He rose and joined the girls, showing them how to open the seldom used north gate that led up the cliffs behind the monastery.

Buenos Aires (AP)—An index of the times was given recently at "Unemployed Town," a branch of the Buenos Aires waterfront where the government feeds and shelters the city's unemployed as distinguished from hoboes. The average attendance last year was 80 men per day. This year it is 1,800.

The U. S. army has raised the "ceiling" for flying cadets. The maximum height at which men will be taken for training now is 6 feet, 4 inches.

May Resume Post

Buenos Aires (AP)—Relatives and friends of President Roberto Ortiz, in retirement since June, say he will resume, soon, perhaps by next November, and probably revamp the "strong men's cabinet" named by Acting President Ramon Castillo.

The United States is by far the world center of air conditioning acceptance.

OFFICE CAT

This is plain common sense: Its not what you'd do with a million

If riches should e'er be your lot. But what are you doing at present With the dollar and a quarter you've got?

Bride—Why are lamb chops so costly? Butcher—There's a scarcity of sheep.

Bride—Nonsense! I counted 2,000,000 in bed last night.

"The Family Visitor," published in 1841 contains the following clear-cut advertisement:

"Whereas my wife, Mrs. Bridget McDallogh, is again walked away with herself, and left me with five small children and her poor blind mother, and left nobody else to take care of house and home, and I hear has taken up with Tim Ghigan, the lame fiddler, that same that was put in the Stocks last Easter for stealing Barney Doody's game cock, this is to give notice, that I will not pay for bite or sup on her account to man or mortal, and that she had better never show the marks of her ten toes near my house again."

Patrick McDallogh P. S.—Tim had better keep out of my sight.

Did he mean it this way? Friend—How was your speech received last night? Senator—Well, when I sat down, they said it was the best thing that I ever did.

There may be splinters on the ladder of success, but you don't notice them until you slide down.

Mother—Junior, did you take the note to Mr. Jones? Junior—Yes, but I don't think he can read it.

Mother—Why so, Junior? Junior—Because he is blind. While I was in the room, he asked me twice where my hat was, and it was on my head.

The road to proficiency leads through awkwardness and unskillfulness. Only those willing to endure these can become skilled.

Bill—Johnnie, they tell me there was not a single mosquito at camp.

Johnnie—No, they were all married and had large families.

Our people are becoming tax conscious with the added preparedness taxes. They should also become conscious of their liberties and living conditions as compared with that of any other nation on the globe.

Clara—The Colonel stutters with a Chamberlain accent. Howard—What's that mean? Clara—If you're standing within range—you need an umbrella.

Foolosophy—Today the rising generation retires about when the retiring generation rises.

So, why work? Beggar—Could you spare me a meal, guv'nor? Man—Well, I can give you some work.

Beggar—No good; work only makes me more hungry.

The one who gives up without trying is not worthy to succeed.

First Shriner—Were you embarrassed when they asked you to make a speech? Second Shriner—Was my fez red?

In the interesting game of matrimony, Robert Quillen finds the score tied as between men and women. Listen to him: "Still, for every woman who makes a fool of a man there is another who makes a man of a fool."

Sister—Who broke that window pane? Brother—Mother did. But it was father's fault—he ran in front of it.

Where There's Smoke
Memphis, Tenn. (AP)—It was an alibi the court hadn't heard before. Nevertheless L. C. Grayer had to pay a $5 fine for smoking on a city bus.
"It was the cigar smoking—I wasn't" Grayer said. "I was holding it in my hand. I thought I'd knock the fire off. But it started smoking again."
Judge Bill Bateman reasoned that cigars just don't smoke by themselves.

Children Are Guests at Bazaar

Yesterday afternoon the children of St. Peter's School were guests at the annual church bazaar which is being held in the school hall on Adams street. Above is one of the attractive booths of which there are several gaily displaying wares. This particular booth decorated in blue and white is the work of the Sisters of the church. The bazaar will close Saturday evening.

Cutworm Enemy Is New Discovery

Idea Also Shows Promise for 'Hopper' Control

Ithaca, Oct. 25—Each year in New York state cutworms and grasshoppers attack crops and add to the troubles of farmers. In some years the damage is more serious than in others.

At Cornell University a bait has been developed that promises to control them. It's all pre-mixed because most farmers and gardeners do not like to mix several different ingredients to get the right poisonous mixtures.

Several hundred pounds were tried in fields this spring in various parts of the state. The bait was sent to county agricultural agents who placed it with growers who had trouble with cutworms. Results so far favor the pre-mixed bait in comparison with the bait previously used.

It was tried to a limited extent against grasshoppers, and the results have been promising, according to W. D. Wylie of the entomology department at Cornell.

Grew the Worms

To develop and test this bait the scientists had to feed it to the cutworms. The best way to get the cutworms for testing was to grow them. This was done in the greenhouse in the insectary at Ithaca. Here another problem developed. About 100 kinds of cutworms are found in New York, but only about 10 do any damage, so the work was restricted to them.

Next, a culture was started by capturing female moths which are the parents of the worms. They fly at night and are attracted to a bait made of over-ripe bananas and brown sugar. This bait was placed on the trunks of trees or on fence posts. When the moths came to feed they were caught in small tin boxes and then put in a cage in the greenhouse. There they laid eggs and a new generation of worms came into being in about four days. In about a month they grew large enough to be used in bait tests.

Some of these worms were allowed to develop into moths, then they were transferred to new cages where they started another generation of worms. In this way a continuous supply of worms was available for testing.

The confectionary business, largely built on pennies, is the sixth most important division of the food industry in the United States.

Shokan, Oct. 25—Louis Shaw of Lake Katrine called on friends and former neighbors here Sunday afternoon.

Kingston hunters in the reservoir country Monday included Orlando Baker, well known Henry street resident.

Charles Personous recently shot a grey fox and collected the bounty on the animal.

Members of the Shokan Ladies' Aid are making preparations for their turkey supper which will be served in the Reformed Church basement next Tuesday evening.

William Tuceling, town highway mechanical engineer, is suffering from an infected hand.

Ed. Davis, one of Kingston's hunters, was out for birds in the Tys Teneyck foothills Tuesday.

New residents this fall include John Ingalls and sisters, the Misses Ann, Margaret and Edith Ingalls, who have turned their state road summer place into a permanent home.

Farmers, doing a little early fall plowing along with other seasonal jobs, find the soil too hard and dry on upland fields for easy furrowing.

Walter Burland and several other members of the reservoir force have completed their extensive wall laying job on the downstream side of the Beaverkill dike and are now engaged in similar work on the north side of the roadway. The men recently turned forester for a few days, and parked a stretch of woodland west of the spillway. The D. W. Standing at the back are Helen Louise Martini, Johanna Martini, Doris Berryann, Eldora Richter, Bertha Green and Janice Berryann. In the center row are Georganna Berryann, Loversa Kauhaupt, Marion Green and Celine Fenton.

Y. W. Women Discuss Contemporary Books

Members of the Women's Club of the Y.W.C.A. spent an afternoon discussing contemporary books Thursday afternoon at the regular meeting held at the "Y". The program was in charge of Mrs. Herbert Fister who acted as chairman.

In the first review Mrs. Harry Halverson told of the book, "I Married Adventure" a biography of the famous photographer Martin Johnson, by his wife Osa Johnson. It is the story of the Johnsons' trips to distant corners of the earth to photograph wild animal life.

"How Green Was My Valley" by Llewellyn, was described by Mrs. Thomas Reynolds as "the year's outstanding novel." The story is that of a Welsh family in a mining town, told by one of the sons and traces the changes that have occurred in Wales during the past 50 years. Mrs. Reynolds also reviewed "Polish Profile" by Princess Paul Sapieha. This is the story of an American girl, married to a Polish nobleman.

"Land Below the Stars" by Agnes Keith, was reviewed by Mrs. Dorr Monroe. This book was awarded the Harper prize for 1940. It is divided into two parts, the first telling of life at Sandican, the capital of Borneo, and the second recounting tales of trips into the jungles. Mrs. Monroe described this as a "chuckle" book.

A second review by Mrs. Halverson was that of "Mrs. Miniver" by Jan Struthers. This is a small book of sketches about small things in everyday life, originally written over a period of two years as a series of newspaper articles. Mrs. Fister closed the program with a review of "They Wanted War", a story of Germany's progress under Hitler by Otto Tolichus, Berlin reporter for the New York Times. This timely message of the dangers that Nazism holds for democracies is written in journalistic style.

Named to College "Who's Who"
Miss Virginia Long, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Long of 28 West Chester street was selected recently by Hartwick College as one of eight members of the student body for listing in "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities." This publication, an annual, contains the biographical sketches of outstanding students in colleges and universities throughout the nation.

Miss Long is president of Phi Sigma Phi sorority and secretary of the senior class. She has been a member of the Student Christian Association cabinet for two years and a member of the Dramatics Club for three years. She was a "post" to the Junior Prom Queen in her freshman year and has a member of the "big sister" committee for two years.

Engagement Announced
Mr. and Mrs. William Brandow of 125 Hunter street have announced the engagement of their daughter, Helen, to Otto Mayr, son of Mrs. Otto L. Mayr of 26 Post street, and the late Mr. Mayr. The engagement was announced Monday evening at a birthday party. Those present were Mrs. Otto Mayr, Robert Mayr, Mr. and Mrs. Kavanaugh, Miss Ruth Ellsworth, Miss Jacqueline Harris, Miss Eleanor Banks, Miss Marie Soper, Miss Mary Scott, Fred Atkins, Daniel Bittner, Herbert Simmons, Michael Culjak, John Fuoco and Daniel Mack.

Gottlieb-Obermeyer
New Paltz, Oct. 25—Marion Obermeyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Obermeyer of Rio and a graduate of New Paltz Normal School, became the bride of Jacob Gottlieb, son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Gottlieb of Port Jervis, Sunday at Port Jervis. Mr. Gottlieb attended the Chicago Institute of Air Conditioning.

Diamond Ring on Third Finger of Left Hand Doesn't Necessarily Mean An Engagement

But Solitaire Would Suggest It, Emily Post Tells Correspondent Who Inherited Jewel.

A young woman writes me that she has lately been wearing a two-stone diamond ring on the third finger of her left hand. The point is that it is not an engagement ring, but was inherited from a relative. She says, "I hadn't occurred to me that possibly this left ring finger was supposed to be reserved just for an engagement ring, in a case where the wearer could be eligible, until the other day when I met a friend whom I hadn't seen for some time. We hadn't been talking very long when she remarked, looking down at my hand, 'Oh! Are best wishes in order?' When I said, 'Oh, no, this was Aunt Jennie's ring,' she was evidently embarrassed."

Since then, two others have looked at the ring, and I have said, "I'm not engaged. It was my aunt's ring." But I am wondering if continuing to wear it is in bad taste. I have always worn another ring on the right hand, and since the knuckle on my left hand is larger than on the right, they don't fit the other way around."

Although wearing a ring on the left hand does not announce an engagement, a solitaire would naturally suggest an engagement. Even so, it wouldn't necessarily be true. If the rings would look just as well changed around, it is a very simple matter, not at all expensive, to have one ring let out and the other taken in.

A Bride in Doubly Deep Mourning
Dear Mrs. Post: A young friend has just lost both parents. She would like to announce her engagement now more than ever, and be married at Christmas. We can certainly all understand why she wants to hurry her plans, but we don't know how much of an announcement of the engagement and what wedding plans may be made under the circumstances, and how much of a wedding may be had.

Answer: According to best taste, announcements are properly made by the girl and man both sending notes to intimate friends, or telling them personally. Under the circumstances, a public announcement might better be omitted. The announcement of marriage could be sent out by an aunt, if she has one, or an older member of the family, or, failing this, a very old friend of the bride's family—her mother's most intimate friend, for example. To have a large announcement party, or a big wedding, would not do at all. But this does not mean that she may not have a lovely wedding and invite all the people she and the bridegroom care for. But it should be very simple. She can wear white and a veil, of course, and have a maid of honor, or possibly two bridesmaids instead of the maid of honor, but not more than that, and no invitations except by word of mouth.

As already said, wedding announcements may be sent out by the relatives or friends, or if she is in her mid or late twenties, she and her husband can announce it together as

Miss Mary Jones and Mr. John Henry Smith
announce their marriage, etc. etc. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad, however, to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "What Shall I Pack?" Be sure to send a three-cent, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post, in care of this paper, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y.

Cottkill Group Plans Organizing Reformed Church

The classis of Ulster at its recent meeting, appointed the committee on vacant churches, the Rev. J. B. Steketee and Russell Damstra, to attend to the business of organizing a Reformed Church in Cottkill.

A petition for a separate organization was approved by the classis. In accordance with this decision there will be a meeting in the church at Cottkill next Sunday afternoon, immediately following the worship service which begins at 2:30 o'clock and all persons who wish to become members of the new church will bring their certificates of church membership.

Should any persons wish to unite on confession of their faith, they will present themselves also at this time. Following the institution of the church there will be an election of elders and deacons.

T^o better living

SHOPPING is at its best in Mid-Autumn when the weather is delightful. It is the big season for "just looking around." New things, each one trying to out-sparkle the other, are coming in faster and faster from the makers. The new shapes, new colors and improvements represented in the fresh stock will keep your interest spiced.

Those who do the bulk of their early winter shopping now approach it with a natural enthusiasm for the new season that helps them to make better selections. (You know how jaded you'll remember from experience that you've always made your most satisfactory purchases when your shopping tour was fun—not when you dragged yourself out to do some serious shopping in a hurry.)

For a bit of diversion, let's "just look around" Herzog's Basement right now.

Here's the best buy in the Basement this week — Ingersoll's "Petite" Alarm Clock, as small and dainty as it sounds. In black and chromium, or ivory and brass. And the sale price is only $1.98. (Reduced from $2.98.)

For man or boy, here's something that ought to make a present. It's the Aero Ingersoll wrist watch in chromium finish with matching band. A regular $3.95 model. It goes on sale this week at $1.95.

(Speaking of prices, that Cel-O-Glass described in last week's GUIDEPOST is so good — a DuPont product — that it sounds expensive. But it emphatically isn't! Only 15 cents per square foot. Compare that with the price of similar products, and come in for your sample of Cel-O-Glass, then compare it!)

The new Fiesta sets are something! Here's the 3-piece kitchen set, casserole and pie-plate, in a red, green and yellow color combination, at only $1.39.

There's a 3-piece salad set in the same colors, at the same price.

The Fiesta Chop Dish, in a lovely blue, as well as other colors, suffices nicely as a cake or sandwich server, too, because of its removable handle. Also $1.39.

Another Fiesta item is the batter bowl with handle and spout, at 88 cents.

Most novel of all, however, are the new cookie jars with their covers designed after a Mexican sombrero, and hat cords for hands. They have a bit of Mexican decoration, too, yet the price is only 69 cents.

A console set of Artistic American Glass is rather special at its price, 79 cents. Both bowl and pair of candle holders are ornamented with a wheat design.

The beautiful new Chase line in brass, copper and chromium is here for gift and bridge-prize hunters. There are two types of Settler's Hurricane Lamps, a Canterbury Bell with hand-carved handle, for musical mald-calling, and a napkin holder that will keep the paper napkins handy and in order at your buffet supper, etc.

If you see anything you like — for later — don't hesitate to ask us to lay it away for you.

The new Pyrex sets alone are worth a visit to the Basement. They come in attractive gift boxes — and each one seems such a surprising lot for the money!

For example, the "Economy" set of 9 pieces, including custard cups, pie-plate, measuring cup and cooking rack is only 79 cents.

The 11-piece gift set, including loaf pan, casserole, utility dish, pie plate, cake dish and custard cups, is $2.45.

There is a 17-piece "Home Baker" set at $2.95, and several smaller sets from 39 cents.

The frost is on the pumpkin — soon the goose will be hanging high. But carving sets are low. The Universal Realstain set is only $2.95. We have the full range of carvers, with bone or horn handles.

Hail the Faucet-Queen, our newest, most sensational kitchen gadget. It's a little thing that fits any size or shape faucet. Put it on and keep it there, and with the slightest move of its tiny lever you can have either a solid stream or a spray. It's also anti-splash. The spray is just what you need for rinsing dishes, cleaning vegetables, etc. Only 30 cents.

WHY DO WE DENY OUR HOMES THE COMFORTS AND CONVENIENCES WE DEMAND ELSEWHERE?

WHY IS IT, we live in a changing world, ride in sleek motor-cars, travel on the most comfortable of trains and planes, enjoy our leisure hours in modernized theatres, restaurants and hotels, and return home to rooms that more often than not are a generation or two out of step with what is going on about us?

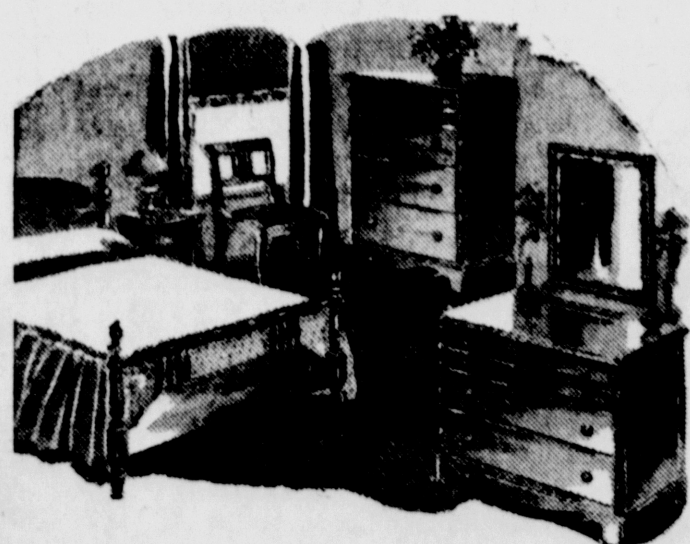

Perhaps it is because we haven't realized that furniture, floor coverings and other furnishings, at Stock & Cordt's are so low priced, that several rooms can be beautifully furnished for less than the price of a small automobile, or some other luxury.

You may want a small, very inexpensive piece of furniture for some purpose... or you may be looking for a suite of excellent quality materials and construction. We have both at very low prices. And, the largest assortment.

Drop in, make your own comparisons.

Remember, you are welcome at all times.

Clean 'Coon
Chattanooga, Tenn. — L. A. Bryant drew himself a bath and stepped from the room.

Hearing sounds of splashing, he rushed back.

There was a raccoon, plopping about in the water. Apparently a tame pet, it had strayed into the house.

Men Wanted
Elmira, N. Y. — The girls at an aviation corporation plant here have formed a "Greek" letter organization.

Its name: Gotta Koppa Poppa.

Kick-Back
Kansas City — The burglar who stole a purse containing $4.50 from the apartment of Stanley W. Ward should have been more careful.

Departing, the prowler dropped his own purse containing 50 cents, cutting his profit to $4.

Seattle—State Senator Joseph Roberts, proponent of an initiative measure to restrict authority of commissioners of public utility districts, sent out large quantities of business reply envelopes for voters to return signed petitions.

He testified at a power hearing that opponents of the measure got hold of the envelopes and used them to mail his stories. He said his postage bill was "terrific."

Two Way Holidays
Minneapolis — It's always a holiday when a baby arrives in the household of Josef Mikodaj.

The eldest daughter, Anna, was born January 1, 1912; John came on July 4, 1915; Henry, December 25, 1918, and Chester, November 11, 1920.

Two other children lay no claim to special birthday distinction, but the youngest, Louise, arrived April 1, 1924.

Tie Verdict
Chicago — A jury of eight women and 14 men presented Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan with a verdict and a necktie, both representing two weeks' work.

The foreman explained the tie was made during the jurors' spare time while sitting on a case. Each juror took at least one stitch in the making of the tie.

YOUNG PINAFORE-TYPE JUMPER

MARIAN MARTIN

PATTERN 9495

An entrance requirement to any school is the jumper dress—favorite classmate of all young things. This vivacious Marian Martin style, Pattern 9495, would be striking in Scotch plaid, perhaps worn with a red or blue wool or velvet blouse. Or have the jumper in corduroy, with a silk blouse. You'll like the smart lines of the jumper with its part-way button opening in back that eliminates any need for a side placket. A wide pointed girdle gives slim lines at the front waist, and big rounded pockets are a stunner. Make the blouse with long or short sleeves, and you might add a cravat tie in the "stolen-from-the-men" vogue!

Pattern 9495 may be ordered only in junior miss sizes 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16 and 17. Size 13, jumper, requires 1½ yards 54 inch fabric; blouse 1½ yards contrast.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coin for this MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and STYLE NUMBER.

Smart, exclusive style is YOURS—at low, sew-at-home cost—in the WINTER PATTERN BOOK by MARIAN MARTIN. Dozens of easily made outfits for every purpose are colorfully presented, with stunning afternoon and after-dark frocks, trim tailored modes, gay sun or snow-bound vacation wear. There are office and campus wardrobes... workaday and "dress-up" styles for matrons of every age... vivacious young-world clothes. Order your copy NOW! BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS. PATTERN FIFTEEN CENTS. POSTER CAMPAIGN—Like the last war, this year's conflict has brought its share of defense posters, such as this one in England—part of a large series of posters made by British school children. A 15-year-old girl, Joan Lee, drew this. All the posters suggest methods to further England's war efforts.

'GOOD OLD DAYS'—Gridiron feats were retold at Philadelphia when Jim Thorpe, Carlisle Indians' All-American star, was feted. At left is Ray Morrison, Temple coach. Jim, now 52 and 225 pounds, hopes his four sons "will all be athletes."

MORE FUN THAN OPERA—In his favorite off-the-stage role as a sea-man, Ezio Pinza, basso with the Metropolitan Opera company, New York, skims about Long Island sound in his boat, "Figaro." That's a character he often plays. Pinza plans a tour of 30 U. S. cities before returning to the "Met" in December. He also will sing with the Chicago Civic Opera.

COME BACK IN A FEW WEEKS—No beehive of activity—yet—is Camp Upton at Yaphank, Long Island, site of a famous world war camp. Inside a week the army cut down a forest of pine scrub, levelled above site; then came frames for the canvas tents.

HEAT'S ON, BELOW!—Into a tank at capital goes a diver to demonstrate the navy's new electrically-heated diving suit. Use of pure glass in fiber form, to line the waterproof suit, helps eliminate danger of short circuits in the heating elements.

TOUR—Nothing was missed by Lt. Gen. Hugh Drum (front) in his inspection of Camp Upton at Yaphank, L. I., where Delaware National Guard already is stationed for training.

A K E D—Cleveland-born Clarence A. Dykstra (above), the University of Wisconsin president asked by F.D.R. to head army draft program, was graduated at Iowa in 1903. He taught at Ohio State, Chicago, Kansas, and is now 57 years old.

AT CHARITY FUNCTION—Seldom-seen Mrs. Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., dances with her customarily stern-faced husband, the motor magnate, at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, where a dance and program of entertainment for the Travelers' Aid society benefit was staged. The Sloans were with a party that included Mrs. Richard Grant of Dayton, Ohio.

VICTOR'S TROPHY—Crooked Wood went straight to the finish line in the Rolling Rock Hunt cup race at Ligonier, Pa., to win this trophy for his owner, Mrs. Lewis A. Park (left) of Sewickley, Pa. At one time Crooked Wood, ridden by Jockey Jack Magee, was 20 lengths ahead. Social Mrs. Richard K. Mellon (right) of the general committee presented the cup.

TOUGH LUCK—Because he didn't duck fast enough, Pete Mazzie, chairman of a meeting to organize a Brooklyn rank and file committee of International Longshoremen's Association has a bandage. A chair-swinging objected to his speech.

The Roman Emperor Maximian, Thracian, was nearly nine feet tall.

Four-Power Talk Scheduled

Coincidentally, dispatches from Rome said a four-power conference was scheduled for next Monday, probably in Bucharest, with delegates from Germany, Russia, Italy and Rumania. The nature of the conference was not disclosed.

Britain's aerial counter-offensive displaying ever greater strength struck hard at Germany's war foundries during the night, the London air ministry reported.

After daylight attacks on Ostend, Calais and a German convoy off Zeebrugge, RAF night raiders spilled their cargoes of high explosives over oil plants at Hamburg, Hannover and Gelsenkirchen; docks and shipping at Hamburg, Cuxhaven, Bremerhaven, Wilhelmshaven, Rotterdam, Le Havre and Lorient; railway communications and freight yards at Emmerich, Munster, Hamm, Bielefeld and Duisburg; and the channel "invasion" ports of Flushing, Ostend and Dunkerque.

Only one British plane failed to return to its base, the air ministry said.

Mussolini's high command reported Italian bombers attacking many objectives in the rich Egyptian valley of the Nile—including port and an airfield at Cahir, and defense works at Aboukir, 14 miles east of Alexandria.

Fires were started "everywhere," the Italian high command asserted.

Italian troops routed a motorized force east of Sidi Barrani, Egypt, the Fascist communiqué said, and apparently heavy fighting raged between Italians and British motorized forces on the Eritrean-Sudan frontier. The communiqué said Italian victories resulted.

Plans Christmas Box

The Ladies Aid Society of Ulster Park is making plans to send a Christmas box to the Comanche Mission at Lawton, Okla. All contributions are to be left with Mrs. Jules Viglielmo by October 28.

There are no Sunday schools in Russia or Turkey.

Draftees Will Get Five Days to Put Affairs in Order

Army Commanders Asked to Give Governors at Least 21 Days' Notice of Number Needed

Washington, Oct. 25 (AP)—President Roosevelt has prescribed regulations for inducting draftees into the army, allowing every man selected for military training at least five days in which to settle his affairs before being inducted.

The regulations, last of six volumes prescribed for the operation of the draft, require army corps commanders to give the governors of the several states at least 21 days' notice of the number of men who will be called from each state on various dates.

Generally, the regulations set forth this procedure for inducting trainees:

The national selective service director will notify each governor periodically of the draft quotas, credits and debts, of his state and the number of men to be furnished by the state. The governors will distribute those quotas among the local draft board in those states.

After the governors have been notified of the number of men called at various times from each state, they will issue a call to local boards for their share of the men to be inducted.

territory in the western hemisphere when any of those areas "are in danger of becoming the subject of barter of territory or change of sovereignty."

A committee, delegated to assume administration of "the region attacked or threatened" came into existence yesterday with the appointment of the 14th member by Ecuador.

French colonies in the western hemisphere include the islands of Martinique and Guadeloupe in the Caribbean Sea, French Guiana on the South American mainland, and the small islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon off Newfoundland.

Sniper Suit Tried by Army

The camouflaged sniper suit—latest in proposed uniforms for the U. S. Army—were tried out by Co. A, 84th Engineers Battalion at Fort Belvoir, Va., recently. Made of a printed cotton material, the suit is said to fool the enemy. The soldier at left has his suit on; his companion is just slipping into one.

Trouble Reported Brewing On Lackawack Project

The old argument as to jurisdiction over various workers at the site of the Lackawack dam, involving Local 17 of Newburgh and a New York Local, is reported to be waxing warmer these days. So far no open outbreaks of importance have been reported but it is stated that the force of Board of Water Supply Police has been augmented of late and that a close watch is being kept on sources of possible trouble.

Kallochmen Will Offer Flashy Secondary to Kingston's Defense Crowd Expected

The local football stage is set for the meeting of Poughkeepsie and Kingston Saturday afternoon at municipal stadium. Opening kickoff is slated at 2:15 o'clock with Poughkeepsie favored to win.

These two eleven, the strongest in the Hudson Valley scholastic area will go at it tooth and nail for the gridiron supremacy of this section. So far in the extended series Poughkeepsie has the upper-hand with nine wins and seven losses.

In these sixteen battles the Bridge City warriors have totaled 197 points to Kingston's 126. When looking over the records Coach Sammy Kalloch is mighty proud of his eleven in the 1925 and 1926 seasons. In these two seasons the Kallochmen pounced on Kingston for victories of 46 to 0 and 32 to 0.

The Kallochmen hit the jackpot in 1938 and 1939 by winning 20-0 and 32-0. However, the Maroon and White gridders rallied and managed to blast Poughkeepsie. In 1924, 1936, 1937 Kingston won 32-0, 38-0 and 19-0.

The 17th meeting tomorrow afternoon will bring together a tough offensive crew from the Bridge City and a similar defensive club from the Colonial City.

To date the Kallochmen have scored 38 points to Kingston's 27. Kingston applied the brakes to the Amsterdam and Mont Pleasant. The lone club to do any scoring was Middletown which tallied six.

But in a game of this kind and importance the salient records fail to mean very much. Poughkeepsie and Kingston have been knocking at each other for many a season and in those battles the high and mighty record books were never thought much of.

Tomorrow it should be the same. These are two powerful teams. Poughkeepsie has shown its famed power since losing to Ossining by trimming Port Jervis and Middletown. Kingston hasn't showed much in the way of attack so far but with fellows like Jack Fallon, Bill Ball, Ed Esposito, Joe Benjamin and Jack Short, the Maroon and White gridders should be ready to open up soon.

Ex-Maroon With Foes

Poughkeepsie will present a secondary which has to be watched continually. Gus Siko, "Whitey" Grommel, who played with Kingston last year; Marsh Dallo and "Flip" Key will be lugging the ball for Kalloch. Dallo, Key and Grommel are much-respected for their ability.

Kingston's forward wall, responsible for the good showing to date, will be on the spot again Saturday. Frank Tucker, Harry Stahl, Nick Lemister, Bud Ellsworth, Johnny Brinnier, Fred Hofbauer and Bob Messinger have held up splendidly so far.

Baron from both schools will be dressed in the respective colors for this big game. Poughkeepsie has a 70-piece band and promises to show plenty of color. About 400 or 500 students and followers from the Bridge City are expected to be in the stands at game time.

Industry Appraises Facilities to Rush Defense Program

Meeting Is Held at Detroit With Knudsen to Hear What U. S. Expects of Men and Plants

Detroit Oct. 25 (AP)—The motorcar industry and related groups appraised facilities today for further acceleration of the national defense program, specifically for a short cut to mass production of aircraft.

Representatives of the automobile industry, the tool and die makers and the body, parts and equipment manufacturers, came here to meet again with William S. Knudsen, member of the national defense advisory commission, in charge of production.

From Knudsen, a production genius who knows all the problems of the automotive industry, they expected to hear another blunt statement of what will be required of them in speeding the defense program.

It is to airplane body parts that major consideration is understood to be planned at today's meetings. Knudsen is said to believe that certain standardized parts can be produced in various automobile plants to be shipped elsewhere for final assembly.

He was expected to present to the meetings blueprints and specifications of what he believes the automobile plants can handle with a minimum of delay. The manufacturers will name committees to make an exact listing of the facilities each factory can make immediately available to such work and to cooperate with related industries in further speeding production of defense materials.

Aged Hunter Shot While Attempting To Rest in Woods

Elijah Van Vliet, 69-year-old resident of New Paltz, was brought to the Kingston Hospital about 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon, where he was treated by Dr. Frederick Snyder, Dr. Ross of Port Ewen and Dr. DeWitt of New Paltz for injuries received when he was struck by some No. 4 shot, most of which lodged in his left shoulder and arm. He was taken home later and his condition this morning was reported to be good.

Van Vliet was hunting squirrels near Grahamsville Thursday afternoon and was sitting down when another hunter mistook him for a fox, according to the story, and fired at him. He was brought to Kingston, where 20 shot holes were found in his arm and shoulder, in addition to one in his forehead and another in his right knee.

Thomas Sheeley, 70 Found Dead Today At His Residence

Thomas Sheeley, aged about 70 years, was found dead sitting in a chair in his home, 76 Wrentham street, shortly after 9 o'clock this morning. Death was due to a heart attack.

Mr. Sheeley, who resided alone, was employed by Ingalls & Bouton, Wilbur avenue coal dealers, and owing to ill health had not been working for more than a week. This morning the firm had a delivery of coal to make in the vicinity of Sheeley's home and the driver was instructed to call at the house and see how Mr. Sheeley was getting on.

The driver discovered Mr. Sheeley, fully dressed, sitting in a chair. Tapping on a window failed to arouse Sheeley and the police were called.

Officer Wesley Cramer responded and found that Mr. Sheeley was dead. Dr. Frederick Snyder, who pronounced death due to a heart attack from which Sheeley had been suffering for some time.

Coroner Norvin R. Lasher of Saugerties was notified by the police.

Mr. Sheeley in his younger days was employed as a teamster hauling Ulster county blue stone from the quarries to the stone docks along the Rondout creek where it was transferred to scows and shipped to the New York city market.

Mr. Sheeley had been employed by Ingalls & Bouton for a number of years.

Spying Is Biggest Crime Wave, Hoover

FBI Chief Warns of Foreign Agents in Country.

WASHINGTON.—Ferretting out of foreign agents bent on espionage or sabotage in the United States has assumed the proportions of the country's greatest crime problem since the start of the second world war. Whereas in the five-year period preceding 1938 the Federal Bureau of Investigation investigated an average of 35 espionage matters each year, during the fiscal year 1940 the 6-men reported they were asked to investigate 16,885 national defense matters.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, stated: "A nation faces a desperate moment when its men and guns are called into action. It is the period before this time, while the enemy is making every possible inroad upon our moral defenses, that the true battle takes place."

"That battle is now in progress in America."

On one day alone the G-men reported, a total of 2,871 complaints originating from sabotage or espionage were received.

During this fiscal year the Federal Bureau of Investigation was confronted with a greater volume of work and more responsibilities than during any other time of its history, Director Hoover announced.

He then added: "I am pleased to report that all law enforcement presents a united front against treasonous activity in every state, county and municipality throughout our land."

"There is more unity today among the forces charged with the responsibility of maintaining our internal security than ever before. This is a happy contrast with the confusion that existed in the first World War when over a score of federal agencies were investigating spies and saboteurs, with a resultant lack of co-ordination and co-operation with the various state municipal groups."

'Missing Link' of Plant

World Is Believed Found

LONG BRANCH, CALIF.—Major Harry L. Bateson caused a sensation in the horticultural world with his claim he has developed the first new member of the vegetable since time began.

Bateson traced the genealogy of plant life, he said, to propagate and bring new blood into the realm of growing things.

Delving into the type of work which made Luther Burbank famous, Bateson pointed out that it is generally unknown that the rose is the parent of the peach, plum, apple and pear, as well as the berry group, including the strawberry.

The one plant filling the gap between the rose and the strawberry, he said, been lost for thousands of years.

After experimenting for 30 years, he said, he has succeeded in developing the missing link of the plant world.

Through the use of the plant, Bateson anticipated an entirely new group of fruits and vegetables and perhaps flowers will result.

Plains States Pin Down

Soil by Control Method

AMARILLO, TEXAS.—Lashing dirt storms that featured the "dust bowl" years of 1933-35 on the Panhandle plains has been settled today by systematic soil-erosion control.

Tons and tons of top soil blew into the sea during the devastating dust storms of the early thirties. Today by contour farming, terracing and strip-cropping farmers and ranchers of the Panhandle have spiked down their fertile pasture and grain land.

Contour farming is the most prevalent of all soil and water saving devices used in this plains area. In a survey of conservation among more than 2,000 farmers in Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico, Oklahoma and west Texas, it was revealed that besides contour farming, grazing control, furrows, crop rotation, water diversions, tree plantings, and strip cropping practices were used.

Light Old Delhi Tomb

NEW DELHI, INDIA.—The ancient tomb of Safdar Jung near here is flooded with red light every night whenever an airplane is in the vicinity.

The tomb, which adjoins New Delhi airport, is lit up as a warning to aviators not to get spiked on its delicate minarets.

The floodlighting is by cunningly concealed neon lights, so arranged that they show off the charms of the beautiful domed structure.

Safdar Jung was grand vizier to Ahmed Shar, emperor of Delhi from 1748 to 1754.

Financial and Commercial

Irregular Decline In Stock Prices

Federal Taxes and Slump in Foreign Trade May Have Caused Drop

There was an irregular decline in stock prices Thursday and averages were down substantially, although a number of business indices for the past week showed gains. There was little in the foreign news to affect market sentiment, but it is suggested that increasing evidence of the effect of Federal taxes on earnings and a slump in foreign trade in September may have tended to dampen enthusiasm.

Business news included: Business loans of New York city banks rose $18,000,000 in the week ended October 23, to highest total since November, 1937. Barran's index of the physical volume of business stood at 88.5 per cent of normal for the week ended October 19, advancing from 87.6 in the preceding week. Freight car loadings for the same week were $13,909, a more than seasonal gain over the preceding week, but five per cent under those for the same week a year ago when the total of $56,289 was the high spot for 1939 and best since 1930.

Changes in the Dow-Jones averages Thursday showed the industrials off 1.04 points for the day, closing at 131.36. Rails dropped .27, to 28.65 and utilities declined .16, to 22.13. Closing prices were at the day's low levels. Volume was lower, total being 538,770 shares. In the list of 15 most active stocks four showed small gains, three were unchanged and the rest had small losses. U. S. Steel again led the list, off 5/8. Republic lost 3/4 and Loft, third on the list, dropped 3/4.

Following steady advances to the best levels in five months commodities declined Thursday and the index lost 0.39 point for the day. Wheat and cotton were off, the former closing at 3/4 to 1 1/4 cents a bushel lower and cotton being unchanged to three points lower. Recent gains in silk were wiped out and hides lost about 1/2 cent a pound on profit-taking. Spot price of raw sugar was confirmed at 2.85 cent a pound and there was firmness in domestic sugar futures.

Export from the U. S. in September were lowest for any month since November, 1939.

Further indication of the effects of the excess profits tax is seen in report of Chrysler Corp. With all provisions for the tax made in the last three months net profit for the third quarter was about five cents a share, compared with net of $1.39 a share in the same period last year. For the nine months to September 30 provision for federal, state and foreign income and excess profits tax exactly double the provision of $7,200,000 in the period last year. Meanwhile there has been a big increase in sales over the 1939 period. Directors declared a dividend of $1.75 a share, making total payments for the year of $5.50 a share.

The army will open bids on November 5 for 20,000,000 square yards of 8.2 ounce khaki cotton cloth. Since June 1 nearly 27,000,000 square yards of regularly specified cloth has been purchased by the army.

Baldwin Locomotive and subsidiaries report net profit of $1,213,880 for 12 months ended September 30, after all charges. Compares with net loss of $614,624 in the preceding 12 months.

Girl Scouts Visit Plant

Yesterday afternoon the Girl Scouts of St. John's Church on Albany avenue were taken on an inspection tour of the Hosler-Trojan ice cream plant.

Edward Flick supervised the lecture, turning over departmental phases to Mr. Snyder and Mr. Finger.

At the closing the following girls enjoyed their portions of French party ice cream given them by the plant: Scout Leader Miss Lillian Herdman, Jean Hotaling, Norma Minor, Beverly Stengel, Gertrude Richter, Betty Jean Neal, Catherine Jansen, Ardath Husta, Blanch Winters, Doris Abbott, Blanch Glass, Jean Parslow, Jean Deming.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Oct. 25 (AP)—The position of the Treasury, October 23: Receipts, $11,613,553.00; net balance, $2,024,575,968.13; working balance included, $1,287,663,507.07; customs receipts for month, $20,984,466.74; receipts for fiscal year (July 1) $1,749,706,705.95; expenditures, $2,969,679,750.08; excess of expenditures, $1,219,973,044.13; gross debt, $44,088,547,166.21; increase over previous day, $6,461,189.94; gold assets $21,428, 062,611.16.

New York, Oct. 25 (AP)—Steels, air transports and specialties managed to edge forward in today's generally lower stock market.

Dealings, fairly active at the start, soon slowed down and early declines running to a point were whittled to minor amounts or transformed into modest gains near the final hour. Transfers were at the rate of approximately 450,000 shares.

Bonds and commodities emulated stocks in their unevenness.

Among shares behind the greater portion of the time were Chrysler, General Motors, Douglas Aircraft, American Telephone, Union Carbide, Great Northern, Loft, International Harvester and American-Hawaiian Steamship.

Resistant were Eastern Air Lines, American Airlines, United Airlines, Pan American Airways, Du Pont, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, J. C. Penney, U. S. Rubber and Sears Roebuck.

Pudget Sound Power & Light preferred issues moved up in the curb. Laggards included American Cyanamid "B," Electric Bond & Share, Gulf Oil and Sherwin Williams.

Two Men Injured As Car Hits Truck

Accident Near Catskill Sends Two to Hospital

Two local men were injured Thursday when their southbound car collided with a north-bound trailer-tractor about two miles south of Catskill. Burt Markle, 19, of 67 Ann street and Edwin Thomas, 29, of 318 Wall street, employed by the Department of Agriculture, were taken to Greene County Memorial Hospital suffering from lacerations, abrasions and other injuries.

Trooper Sweeney of Coxsack station reported the southbound car apparently ran off the road to the shoulder and in coming back to the pavement swerved and struck the truck. Fred Ostrander of Albany suffered lacerations of the neck and elbow and an injured back.

The driver of the truck reported the southbound car operated by Markle had appeared to leave the road and then swerve back. An attempt to avoid the crash failed and the cars came together almost head-on. Markle told the officers he was blinded by lights from the oncoming truck.

Markle suffered multiple lacerations and abrasions of the face and Thomas had an injury to his ankle, a fracture of the arm, injury to his hand and scalp lacerations. The Markle machine left the road and over-turned in a gully.

HELD IN DOUBLE SHOOTING

Louis Kleinberg, 39, (seated) was held at Pittsburgh in connection with the shooting of the parents of Evelyn Hartstein, with whom he was in love. The girl's mother died of her wounds, and Detective Walter Monaghan here gives Kleinberg a paraffin test to determine whether he had fired a gun recently.
